U.S. 'ENCOURAGED' INVASION, SAYS NEHRU

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today accused the United States of encouraging the invasion of Cuba, and said that Cuban rebels were trained somewhere on the U.S. mainland.

Nehru, speaking before the upper House of Parliament, said he could not understand how there could be an invasion of Cuba without the support of public or private authorities of the United States to Cuban rebels.

Castro Crushes Invasion But Guerrilla War Goes On

"... thank heavens there's at least one part of the confounded park they've left in its natural state ..."

U.S. Ready To Protect Self—JFK

'We Won't Abandon Cuba to Communists'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy declared today the United States will not hesitate in meeting its obligations to its own security in the Cuban situation — should that become necessary.

In an address prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Kennedy again said that unilateral American intervention in Cuba would have been contrary to traditions and international obligations, "but let the record show that our restraint is not inextinguishable."

"Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action—if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration—then I want it clearly understood that this government will not hesitate in meeting its primary obligations which are to the security of our own nation."

LAOS GUERRILLAS

Kennedy said the Cuban guerrilla fighters aligned against the government of Fidel Castro are determined that Cuba must not be abandoned to the Communists.

"And we do not intend to abandon it either," the president said. "The Cuban people have not yet spoken their final piece—and I have no doubt that they will continue to speak up for a free and independent Cuba."

Nor, Kennedy said, will the U.S. accept Castro's attempts to blame the United States for the hatred his one-time supporters have for his repression.

His audience, the annual meeting of the newspaper society, was the same forum before which Castro insisted two years ago: "We are not Communists."

ANSWERS SOVIET

In a reference to Premier Khrushchev, the president said that should the time ever come when the United States must protect itself against outside Communist penetration of the western hemisphere, "we do not intend to be lectured on 'intervention' by those whose character was stamped for all time on the bloody streets of Budapest."

Cuba is not an island unto itself and "our concern is not ended by mere expressions of non-intervention and regret."

This, he said, is not the first time.

Heavy Losses On Both Sides

MIAMI (AP) — Prime Minister Castro said today he has wiped out rebel invaders on Cuba's southern beaches and captured large stores of U.S. arms, including Sherman tanks.

But he conceded his forces have suffered heavy losses.

The rebel leaders insisted the main invading force has fought through to guerrillas waiting in the Escambray Mountains of central Cuba to carry on the civil war.

Echoing Castro's claims, Moscow radio charged U.S. marines are poised to strike and repeated Soviet government warnings that the use of American forces would have dire consequences.

Moscow said Castro had "dealt a colossal blow to the forces of aggression" but "this does not mean that the threat of the independence of Cuba has been removed and that the interventionists have relinquished their criminal schemes."

Rebels Had Mere 600 'Fighters'

By MAX FREEDMAN
Special to the Times

WASHINGTON — The mystery of the invading force can now be explained. The total anti-Castro forces landed in Cuba amounted to nearly 5,000 men but the bulk of them were not troops intended for immediate combat.

This figure includes field hospital attendants and other support units. In other words, there were about 500 to 600 combat troops.

The main body of anti-Castro forces—about 4,000 men—were put ashore with enough supplies and communications equipment to establish a stronghold of opposition in the Escambray mountains in south central Cuba.

This is the intended core of the democratic revolutionary front which aims at gathering enough supplies in the island to topple the Castro regime.

But that now seems a long-term prospect. Castro has been strengthened by recent events, not weakened by them, unless all the military reports from Cuba are unreliable.

'Vendetta Not Answer'

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan, pledging Britain's co-operation in trade with South Africa after it leaves the Commonwealth May 31, said today a vendetta would do nothing to change apartheid.

Macmillan said he believed it is "the hope of every one of us" that in time a South Africa which has dropped its apartheid policy will rejoin the Commonwealth.

The prime minister told 4,000 Conservative women at a meeting here "we would certainly not help the situation if we pursued a vendetta against them and indulged in trade boycotts and similar demonstrations."

"On the contrary, we hope to continue as far as is practicable co-operation in trade and other matters."

Korea Air Alert

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — A South Korean air force Sabrejet crashed 100 miles south of Seoul today after being chased by three Communist MiGs. The incident touched off a nationwide air alert.

SOUTHEAST ASIA ALERT MAY BE CALLED SOON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration was reported today to call for a military alert by the Southeast Asia Alliance if Russia continues to delay a cease-fire in Laos.

An administration official said that the next few days would be critical.

HITS EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Republicans Rap JFK Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress today to curb "expense account living," raise taxes on dividends and give business a chance to qualify for $1.7 billion in tax cuts designed to spur economic growth.

These and other proposals for sweeping tax reform next year were contained in a special message.

The president's seven-point program would not affect taxes paid by taxpayers with income only from wages or a salary.

Congressional tax writers promptly agreed that the president's tax program was so controversial there was no chance it would win approval in its present form.

UNDER FIRE

The program came under immediate fire from Republicans on the house ways and means committee which was expected to begin public hearings within two weeks.

Rep. Bruce Alger (R-Tex.) termed it "a declaration of war on American free enterprise." Rep. Steven B. Derouanian (R-N.Y.) called the president's message "a curious concoction of hokum and hyperbole."

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) said he would schedule hearings on the president's proposals.

The tax cuts proposed for businesses would be restricted to those which make new investments in plant and equipment and would be geared to the magnitude of the investments.

The president estimated this investment incentive would cost the treasury $1.7 billion a year, but create 500,000 jobs. He said the revenue would be recovered through his other proposals, so that the federal budget would not be affected.

Kennedy's program would not increase taxes paid by taxpayers with income only from wages or a salary.

BRITAIN OPTIMISTIC

Laos Peace Seems Near

LONDON (Reuters) — A foreign office spokesman said today agreement seemed very near between Britain and Russia on the question of a cease-fire and the holding of an international conference on Laos.

"Agreement now seems very near," the spokesman told a press conference, but he declined to elaborate on the brief statement.

Britain called on Russia Wednesday to join in an appeal today to the right wing and leftist forces in Laos to end their fighting.

Diplomatic sources said one more meeting between the British ambassador in Moscow Sir Frank Roberts, and Soviet government officials might be enough to bring about full agreement and a joint appeal for a cease-fire might come sometime later today.

Roberts presented the cease-fire proposal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow Wednesday.

The proposal was the latest of a series of diplomatic exchanges on Laos between the two nations in their capacity as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home said the proposal presented Wednesday called for a 14-nation conference on Laos to start May 5, after the cease-fire had been verified by the Indian-Canadian-Polish truce commission on Laos.

30 Die In Angola

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — Portuguese police broke up a rebel "government" in Southern Angola in a series of clashes with natives in which 30 were killed and 33 arrested, it was announced today.

2nd Newsmen Jailed

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — The Swiss foreign office today reported the arrest in Havana of a second United Press International correspondent, Martin Houseman. It said it had asked the Castro government for details. The arrest of UPI correspondent Henry Raymond was reported Wednesday.

SOVIET RAPPED

U.S. Backed By Britain On Cuba

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Britain Wednesday denounced as extreme and without foundation the Soviet and Cuban charges that the United States is masterminding an invasion aimed at overthrowing Cuban Premier Castro.

Sir Patrick Dean, the British delegate, delivered a strong defence of the U.S. in the United Nations political committee.

The Soviet bloc was meeting with no support in the committee for its demand that the UN condemn the U.S. as an aggressor in Cuba.

Both Britain and Canada endorsed a proposal by Latin American nations to let them take the leading role in negotiating a peaceful settlement of the Cuban situation.

The 99-nation committee scheduled morning, afternoon and night meetings and was expected to vote on the Cuban situation before the day is out. Its decision then must go for final approval to the General Assembly.

At this morning's session Saudi Arabia accused the U.S. of inciting revolt against Castro's government. It said Cuba does not have to account to anybody for the alleged betrayal of its revolutionary principles.

Saudi Arabian minister of state Ahmad Shukairy denounced the Monroe Doctrine, telling the General Assembly's main political committee:

"If you accept the hemispheric idea, then Europe would be under the Soviet Union and Asia under China."

Department press officer Lincoln White said the mob actions were "just what you would expect" in eastern Europe by pro-Castro mobs.

The demonstrations were in connection with the rebel anti-Castro invasion of Cuba.

It is not for his wife, Princess Margaret, or for himself. It's for the London Zoo.

"I did it in the evenings and at weekends," he told reporters.

Answering questions at the zoo, he denied he planned a career as a bird home architect and added:

Some o' them aldermen are makin' a lack-cluster effort.

What wuz Khrushchev's gift t' Castro?

Yanks Seize Cuban Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — U.S. Air Force authorities today seized a Cuban airliner when it made an "unauthorized" landing at the U.S. Kindley Air Force base on a flight from Prague, Czechoslovakia to Havana.

The seizure of the Bristol Britannia airliner with 25 persons aboard, 11 of them passengers, was based on the technical point the plane did not have proper insurance and had been advised in flight not to land at the American base.

The Cubana Airlines is owned by the government of Premier Fidel Castro which established regular Prague-Havana flight service last December.

TONY BUILDS BIRDCAGE —NOT FOR HIM OR MEG

LONDON (AP) — Antony Armstrong-Jones disclosed at his first press conference today that he's been up to since his honeymoon—he's been designing a bird cage.

It is not for his wife, Princess Margaret, or for himself. It's for the London Zoo.

"I did it in the evenings and at weekends," he told reporters.

Answering questions at the zoo, he denied he planned a career as a bird home architect and added:

"I don't want to be known as an aviary man."

The huge, super-modernistic bird cage will house between 50 and 60 birds.

"I used an old razor blade to carve out the base of the model," he said. "It was made of balsa wood. I used picture wire for the superstructure."

Collaborating with him have been two London architects, Cedric Price and Frank Newby.

"In the design for this aviary we have tried to achieve an exciting design in architecture as well as allowing the birds as much light and freedom as possible," said Armstrong-Jones, who has been connected with the Council of Industrial Design since January.

From its floor sprouts a tall bare tree, below a roof of bristling geometrical design of angles and points. And there are two waterfalls. The finished aviary will be 150 feet long, 63 feet wide and 80 feet high. Visitors will be able to walk through the centre, protected by a wire netting.

Pirate Ship Crew Said Under Arrest

LONDON (Reuters) — A group of Portuguese exiles living here said Wednesday reliable reports from their homeland indicated that 100 crew members of the liner, Santa Maria, are under arrest.
A statement released by the group, bitterly opposed to the regime of Premier Antonio Salazar, added that 78 sailors from a battleship dispatched to intercept the fugitive liner last January also were in jail.
The Santa Maria was in the headlines in January when anti-Salazar rebels seized the liner in the Caribbean. They later turned the vessel over to Brazil which returned her to Portugal.

23 Die As Train Hurtles Bridge

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — A passenger train hurtled over a bridge near Siliguri, on the border with Bhutan, Wednesday night, killing 23 persons and injuring 81.
Police said sabotage was suspected.
Messages reaching Calcutta said the engine and seven coaches of the train were derailed.

struggle of liberty against tyranny, anywhere on the face of the globe, including Cuba itself.
Kennedy said that those who staged automatic riots in the streets of free nations over the efforts of Cubans to regain their freedom should recall the roll call of refugees who cannot go back now to Hungary, North Korea, North Viet Nam, East Germany, Poland, or to other lands from which a steady stream of refugees testifies "to the cruel oppression now holding sway in their homelands."

This thrust at Russia and communism and those who have demonstrated before U.S. embassies overseas preceded a statement that "we dare not fail to realize that it is this struggle which is taking place every day."

Kennedy said he is convinced the U.S. possesses all the necessary resources, skill and added strength that comes from belief in the freedom of man. He said he is equally convinced that history will record that the "bitter struggle now under way reached its climax in the late 1950s and early 1960s."

"Let me make clear as your president that I am determined upon our system's survival and success, regardless of the cost and regardless of the peril."

UNDERWORLD PLANNING PRISON RIOTS IN U.K.?

LONDON (UPI) — British prison officials feared today that a series of insolent "strikes" in eight jails might be the prelude to mass riots directed by underworld leaders on the outside.

The pattern of the unrest which flared up in the prisons two weeks ago is unique in modern British penal history. From jail to jail the disturbances have spread accompanied by refusals to work or obey orders and occasional assaults on warders.

There now seems to be a directing mind behind what was at first regarded as a spontaneous complaint against food and working conditions.

Aid to Handicapped Draws Wide Support

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—The government had the rare pleasure in Commons Wednesday of introducing a new piece of legislation which won immediate praise from all parties.

Liberal and CCF speakers readily supported the introductory resolution for a bill which will provide support for provincial programs to train disabled persons in new vocational skills.

The acclaim — which was quickly followed by some critical remarks on the same measure — capped a day of unusual progress in the government's legislative program.

MPs gave final reading to a controversial tariff amendment, second reading to a new Canada-United States tax treaty and first reading to the bill to support training of the handicapped.

It was all the more unusual because it was Wednesday, shortest day of the 25½-hour Commons work week. Only a 3½-hour afternoon sitting is held on Wednesdays.

Tariff Bill Fought Up to the End

Liberal and CCF members refused to support third-reading of the tariff amendment, on which they had already heaped much criticism in eight previous days of debate. It was sent to the Senate with such dissent noted.

The bill sets up the revenue minister as the sole and final judge of whether an imported product is of a type being produced here, thus subject to higher rates of duty. The tariff board now makes such decisions and these can be appealed to the courts.

Opposition critics contend the measure gives the government a "cunning" device to raise tariffs on millions of dollars worth of imports and will imperil Canada's friendly trade relations with other countries.

The Canada-U.S. tax treaty, two years in the making, seeks to avoid double taxation between the two nations.

SYNOD APPROVES

Prelate Backed On Divorce Law

TRADITIONAL wig and gown is worn by city lawyer Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake in his new office of registrar of the diocese of British Columbia, a position once held by his grandfather. He succeeds R. A. Wootton, QC, who resigned on being appointed a judge of the B.C. Supreme Court. Mr. Drake took over his duties at 59th session of the diocesan synod in Christ Church Memorial Hall. "He bears an honored name in the history of this diocese," said Archbishop Harold Sexton.

Prelate Backed On Divorce Law

The Anglican Synod of the diocese of British Columbia has supported a recommendation by Archbishop Harold Sexton that the church revise its attitude towards the re-marriage of divorced persons.

In session Wednesday afternoon, the synod passed a resolution welcoming the archbishop's proposal and instructing the secretary to forward it to the General Synod in Toronto.

Archbishop Sexton had said that the canon law of the Anglican Church of Canada against remarriage of divorced persons is "too rigid."

The canon law says that no divorced man or woman in the Anglican Church may remarry while a former partner is alive.

DISCRETION URGED

The archbishop urged that the canon be revised to give the church "discretionary powers" in regard to "deserving" divorced persons.

His proposal will now go before the highest authority in the Anglican Church.

Archbishop Sexton said, if the general synod agreed to his proposal, it would involve an alteration or revision in the canon laws of the church.

This would enable clergy to exercise "some judgment and discretionary powers" in regard to re-marriage of divorced persons.

He added that the onus would be on the divorced persons to present their case to the church authorities.

The 200-member synod supported a motion that the diocese give $5,000 extra to the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church in addition to the $25,000 it pays yearly to the General Synod in Toronto.

Last year a motion to increase the yearly payment to the General Synod was vetoed by Archbishop Sexton. This year, he said: "The archbishop concurs."

The motion was passed after Col. H. F. Webber, lay secretary of the synod, said he had investigated the cost of operations of the general synod and found they had increased substantially.

CHURCH IN SCHOOLS

The synod also supported a recommendation by Archbishop Sexton that there should be "proper" religious instruction in public schools.

The archbishop said religious instruction in British Columbia schools could be "non-denominational" in the early grades.

Elected to the executive committee of the synod were: Canon G. H. Greenhalgh, Canon B. T. Page, Canon T. Bailey, Canon George Biddle, Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh, Rev. T. D. B. Ragg, Rev. J. A. Roberts, Canon F. C. Austin, Rev. William Hills, Rev. D. B. Houghton.

H. D. Arnold, E. W. Arnott, R. Bray, Hugh Henderson, H. H. Smith, T. A. Walker, Capt. T. B. T. Hewitt, Lt.-Col. D. S. Mitchell, Capt. C. Gibson, Capt. J. H. Worsley and Dr. G. G. Reynolds.

JOB-SEEKER SEEN IN OFFICE

Charge Laid in Diplomat's Murder

OTTAWA (CP)—Shani Ferizi, 38, was remanded to April 27 without plea or election when he appeared in magistrate's court today on a charge of murder arising from the shooting death of an official in the Indian high commissioner's office Wednesday.

K. Sankara Pillai, also 38, first secretary, was shot to death at his desk by a man who walked into the offices with a rifle.

Ferizi, in his brief court appearance, appeared calm as he stood before Magistrate Glenn E. Strick.

James Touhey acted as lawyer for the accused today but he told the court that Royden Hughes, leading Ottawa criminal lawyer, will represent Mr. Ferizi at his preliminary hearing.

The young diplomat was left crumpled at his desk Wednesday by a man who walked into the midtown offices with a rifle. He came and left without being challenged.

A downstairs receptionist who caught a fleeting glimpse of a man in the lobby mirror was apparently the only person in the building to see the killer arrive or depart.

About 30 staff workers in the three-storey building heard the muffled explosion of the shots. But they ignored it as a car backfiring until an employee glanced in and saw Mr. Pillai, India's second-ranking official in Ottawa, slumped in a pool of blood.

Mr. Pillai, 38-year-old career diplomat and father of two small children, had died almost instantly of two .303-calibre bullets fired point-blank into his chest as he sat at the desk.

Minutes after the shooting a man walked into the RCMP offices a block west of Parliament Hill and reported the incident. He was detained and turned over to city police.

Two hours later police said a charge of murder had been laid against Ferizi.

B. N. Bose, press attache at the Indian high commission, said a man called on Mr. Pillai Tuesday to ask about getting a job in India. Mr. Pillai had told him to come back in a day or so so his qualifications could be checked.

Colored Arrivals 'Alarm' Britons

LONDON (Reuters).—A member of Parliament said today Britons are "frightened and alarmed" at the immigration of colored Commonwealth citizens into Britain.

Conservative MP Cyril Osborne made the statement in the House of Commons during a debate on immigration.

Osborne said "immigration into Britain, much of it from the West Indies, in the first two months of this year was five times the amount recorded during the same period in 1960."

Home Secretary R. A. Butler said the government is considering legislation to enable deportation of "undesirable characters" from Commonwealth countries.

He added that such legislation would be used only for convicted criminals and would not be on "a color basis".

Mr. Lloyd Sets the Pace

IN BRINGING DOWN HIS budget, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd has done much more than deliver an unprecedented $16.8 billion plan of income and expenditure: he has met head-on several knotty problems and made a courageous stab at solving them.

Pre-budget speculation had implied doubt that Mr. Lloyd would tackle the tough problem of British income tax in the higher brackets. But he has. Ever since the last war the incomes of persons making more than $10,000 a year have been steeply taxed. Very quickly the levy becomes almost confiscatory. The burden of the tax has had an unforeseen effect on industry.

One of the problems of British industry today is the discrepancy between a few big, successful firms, and a number of smaller, faltering companies. The latter need the help of trained executives—men who hold second and third-rank positions in the larger companies. The problem is to lure these men into the new jobs, for they must be offered fabulous salary increases in order to receive even a modest tax-paid net increase.

The case is cited of an executive who would have had to be given more than $33,000 over his existing salary in order to achieve a net increase of $5,500 a year. Income tax took all the rest. A highly-placed director was listed as receiving $65,500 a year: after taxes his salary was only $18,302.

For a country anxious to re-establish failing industrial firms and get them into vigorous export production, this presented a problem. Mr. Lloyd has attacked it—risking loud public protests from lower income groups—by calling for major tax concessions to persons earning more than $5,600 annually. The results should extend beyond the mere encouragement thus given to personal initiative.

In another drastic move, with a thought to Britain's labor shortage, he will impose a per-head tax on employees, to be paid by employers, in an effort to reduce inefficient and redundant use of workers.

Equally unprecedented is the Chancellor's request for power quickly to raise or lower sales taxes and customs and excise duties, within a maximum limit of 10 per cent. By this means he hopes to exercise a ready control on the country's economy and a flexible influence on the balance of payments through regulation of domestic consumption.

Such sweeping powers have never before been requested, for these tax changes would be made by decree instead of by the vote of Parliament. The powers would require extension after August, 1962, but in Britain's condition of burgeoning economy and vital need for export sales they might be an answer to the problem.

Of similarly far-reaching effects on the economy is Mr. Lloyd's budgetting for a surplus of more than $1 billion. He is using the national budget not merely as a program of revenue and expenditure, but as a delicate instrument with which he may encourage and direct the economy, and particularly the vital flow of export business.

His large surplus is an anti-inflationary move designed to drive goods into export by relieving the pressure of domestic buying. By stimulating exports the squeeze on Britain's balance of payments, and the ever-present threat to reserves, will be eased.

Mr. Lloyd, like Mr. Macmillan, appears to be alive to the wholly new situations being created by the rise of the European trading blocs. He sees basic economic strength, and the ability to act quickly to meet any change, as the keys to survival.

Breakers Ahead

A LARGE ROCK IS THRUST ing up in the uncharted seas ahead of the New Party, and next August may find it directly under the bows of the political ship as it is launched.

The two factions—the political CCF and the Canadian Congress of Labor which hope to unite in a new entity—are far apart on one of the most important aspects of their appeal to the Canadian public: the question of foreign policy.

The CCF, in the voice of a man who aspires to the leadership of the New Party, Mr. Hazen Argue, MP, calls for Canada's withdrawal from NATO, the mutual defence group on which Canadian policy has been based since the last war. Some CCF members go farther and demand neutrality, others may not follow Mr. Argue in his reasoning. But the bulk of the CCF may be said to favor this stand.

The CLC, on the other hand, while having some beliefs in common with the CCF, stands behind Canada's participation in NATO. Only if there is world disarmament, says the CLC, should regional defence groups—provided for by the United Nations charter—be abandoned.

But while the CLC leaders support this view, they recognize that a sizeable portion of their membership not only urges Canada's withdrawal from NATO but preaches all-out neutralism.

How can these divergent elements be reconciled when the New Party representatives meet in August to draw up their policies?

And in the meantime, on what policy are New Party candidates appealing to the people in byelections? If they are truthful they must admit that they have as yet no party and no policy. They must ask the party to vote in favor of something that does not yet exist and whose nature cannot even be determined at this time.

Bitter Coffee in Brazil

LATE LAST MONTH BRAZIL'S new president, Janio Quadros, ordered the dismissal of 10,000 civil servants, a 30 per cent cut in the federal budget, including funds for the armed services, and faced the fires of public indignation as he fought runaway inflation.

After two months in office the man who received the largest popular vote ever won by a presidential candidate in Brazil looked ahead to a near future in which he will have no friends.

The position of the president seems to typify the condition of Brazil, inherited from his predecessor, Juscelino Kubitschek. It provides an object lesson in what happens to a country and its leaders when national finances have been allowed to fall into absolute disorder.

President Quadros, an apparently sincere man who wishes to pursue an honest course to re-establish the economic health of Brazil, finds he has no firm foundation on which to reconstruct the nation as a viable economy.

In the stores, women weep when the paper money they bring to pay for purchases is rejected as inadequate. Taxi fares have risen 55 per cent in Sao Paulo and will go up in other cities and towns. Substantial rate increases are in prospect for buses, airlines and trucking service. Gasoline prices have increased 80 per cent.

The chaotic situation, rendered more bitter by the criticism of the government's opposition, was emphasized by President Quadros' exchange reforms last month. Under them the government subsidy is stripped from imports of petroleum, wheat, newsprint, fertilizers, airline equipment and other goods.

These are the drastic measures introduced by Quadros to counteract the deficits invited by the Kubitschek administration. They may represent sound economics. They are anything but popular politically.

Caught in the middle, President Quadros tries to solve the national problem by applying a tighter belt. His efforts face the opposition of growing political forces over which he has no control. The proposed cure is painful. The patient seeks to escape the pain, but it is inescapable.

THE CANADIAN POST OFFICE Department's booklet "Letter Perfect" gives the reader all sorts of interesting information on mail.

It notes that four billion letters are delivered each year, which amounts to about 225 annually for each man, woman and child in Canada—proving, no doubt, that you aren't getting your share.

It also says that letters are sorted electronically, whisked about in automatic conveyors and sped on their way by jet airplane, snowmobile and dogsled.

The marvels of penny post, which isn't penny any more, are something to admire. And if a letter seems a little delayed in reaching you, well, dogsleds, you know, and sometimes the snow isn't very good for mushing.

By Retreat or Expansion

MR. John Meyer, financial editor of the Montreal Gazette, returns from Europe with the warning that it were noted here in some detail by this reporter a few months ago.

But it is indeed remarkable to find the Gazette, as the oldest and most reliable supporter of a Conservative protectionist policy in Canada, concluding that "the formation of the European Common Market is only the beginning of what must eventually become a trans-Atlantic common market."

IN other words, Canada cannot escape from the effects of Europe's massive new economic power by any retreat behind tariff walls. As Mr. Meyer puts it, "we can't get along without those (European) markets. Apart from the jobs they provide in Canada, they are our counterweight against the pull from the United States. If we are shut out from them, we must inevitably drift closer to becoming an unwanted 51st state."

Hence we must retain and expand our European markets; but Mr. Meyer concludes, quite rightly, that we cannot hope to succeed by our present methods. For "Canadians are without jobs now because we've inflated wages and prices and grossly over-taxed much of our ability to compete over the long-term by snatching at short-term benefits. Europe isn't making that mistake."

CERTAINLY it is not, as every visitor can see, Europe works by a long-term plan of phased tariff reduction between the members of the Common Market and already has made faster progress than it dared to hope or any North American thought possible.

When the North American economy was standing virtually still last year the Common Market countries, on average, achieved a 12 per cent increase in production. Mr. Meyer expects them to do equally well this year.

He also agrees with this reporter's conclusions that the Common Market and the Free Trade Association led by Britain eventually will be merged, by one means or another, to create probably the most dynamic economy in the world and to create also many wrenching problems for Canada.

Will this country take advantage of Europe's rapidly expanding wealth, its growing demand for goods of all sorts by seeking to join its area of tariff reduction and expanded trade? Or will it try to resist Europe's new competitive power in the world, and in the Canadian market, by restricting imports?

Alternatively, by refusing to consider a trans-Atlantic trading community, will it find itself driven inexorably deeper into the economic hegemony of the United States?

THESE are the only available choices before us but up to now the Canadian government has refused to face them, apparently in the hope that if they are disregarded, or repelled by our muttered threats of retaliation, they will somehow disappear. As the financial editor of Canada's oldest Conservative newspaper warns us, they will not disappear. They are moving closer all the time.

For the moment, however, they may be blurred by a cyclical upturn in the North American economy. Even a slight rise in prosperity, and a drop in unemployment, may enable Canada to evade the basic decisions for a little while longer.

AS Mr. Meyer plainly sees, that reprieve must be temporary. For the over-all fact, obscured by the timorous debates of Canadian politics, is that in a period of recession, mainly induced by our non-competitive costs, we have done little or nothing to alter them.

We enter the upward cycle, if it is actually under way now, with our costs still distended and, in this period of reviving hope, seem likely to distend them still more.

The Europeans, as Mr. Meyer notes, are not making that mistake. They continue to push their costs down, their productivity up. Their competitive power is thus increasing and in the end we must meet it, either by an impoverishing retreat into North America or a bold expansion into the huge and growing market of the north Atlantic.

MR. Pearson, the only major Canadian statesman who has ventured so far to discuss these alternatives candidly, finds it extremely difficult to make Parliament understand them, or the government to admit them. But suddenly he has received a confirmation of his general views from the most unexpected quarter, from the Montreal Gazette, the venerable ark of the protectionist covenant. How long one wonders, will it take the conversion of Montreal to reach Ottawa?

TWO LEVELS

Theology has taken away the barriers which separated faith from science. And it is especially dialectical theology which has removed that barrier in claiming that there is no barrier, but that there are just two levels of life: the level of abstraction and science, and that of personality and human relations. If people understand this fundamental distinction, they will not have any difficulty with science.

FROM OTTAWA

By GRANT DEXTER

A Nasty Problem for Mr. D

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BASTEDO of Saskatchewan caused a furore with his recent refusal to assent to a provincial bill. The constitutional authorities here discuss the case in these terms:

A lieutenant-governor is a federal official. He is appointed by the federal government. He is instructed by the federal government. And he can be—on more than one occasion has been—dismissed by the federal government.

Legally he has power to exercise his own discretion. But in practice, lieutenant-governors have been warned against doing so and advised to get instructions from Ottawa. This warning and advice was given by Sir John A. Macdonald's government in 1882.

But first the official instructions given by Ottawa to all lieutenant-governors: They consist of a preamble and seven sections. Section four covers the present case.

"The lieutenant-governor is to take care that all laws assented to by him in my name (the governor-general's) or reserved for signification of my pleasure thereon shall, when transmitted by him, be fairly abstracted in the margin, and be accompanied in such cases as may seem to him necessary, with such explanatory observations as may be required to exhibit the reasons and occasions for proposing such laws."

Clear Procedure

In November 1882, the Macdonald government passed an order-in-council which, after approval by the governor-general, was sent to all lieutenant-governors and, thereafter, became a part of the instructions given to all persons holding this office.

Here is the quotation:

"The lieutenant-governor is not warranted in reserving any measure for the assent of the governor-general on the advice of his ministers" (meaning the provincial ministers). "He should do so in his capacity of a Dominion official only, and on instructions from the governor-general" (meaning the federal government). "It is only in case of extreme necessity that a lieutenant-governor should without such instructions exercise his discretion as a Dominion officer in reserving a bill. In fact, with facility of communication between the Dominion and the provincial governments such a necessity can seldom if ever arise."

This was written in the days of the telegraph and railway. We are now in the days of the long distance telephone and the jet airplane. Indeed, Mr. Bastedo advised Ottawa of what he had done by telephone.

Why, it is asked, did Mr. Bastedo proceed in this way?

If Mr. Bastedo had assented to the bill, he would in due course, have forwarded a copy to Ottawa with his comments and Ottawa would have had one year in which to disallow it.

If he thought the bill should be reserved, he could have written a memo and sent it by air mail, telegraph or telephone. He could have expressed his opinion on the bill and asked for instructions.

But by failing to ask for instructions and reserving the bill he has presented the Diefenbaker government with a most unusual and unwelcome problem. The Diefenbaker government cannot avoid taking sides. A positive decision is inescapable.

Mr. Bastedo is now finished with the bill. It does not return to him. If the Diefenbaker government decides that the bill should be assented to and made law, the royal assent will be given by the governor-general. If not, the bill dies and after one year the Saskatchewan legislature, if it so desires, can re-enact it—starting the controversy all over again.

Alternatives

If the bill is assented to here, it will mean that the Diefenbaker government has reversed the lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan. The common view is that he would either resign or be replaced.

Alternatively, the bill might be referred to the Supreme Court for an opinion on its constitutionality. If the bill is unconstitutional, the court's decision would kill it. If constitutional, its fate would have to be decided by the Diefenbaker government.

In the last 40 years, the federal government has increasingly used the power of disallowance or reservation only to protect Dominion rights.

This was the case in 1937, Alberta was interfering with the federal banking and credit system and denying Dominion citizens, resident in Alberta, their Dominion right to a free press.

Politically, Mr. Bastedo's act has caused something of a sensation. The Diefenbaker government is said to be intensely irritated. The government regards it as most unfortunate that a provincial bill should be reserved—without instructions from Ottawa—at the moment when the Diefenbaker government is making ardent advances to Quebec.

It goes without saying that every provincial government is now sitting well forward on the edge of the seat, watching Ottawa with intense interest. This is true, also, of the constitutional authorities here, and, no doubt, in every law school across the country.

The cobwebs have been wiped away from the seldom used shelves. The dust has been blown off the dusty volumes. Spectacles have been taken off, breathed on and polished.

These are lively times—constitutionally.

As Our Readers See It

Registering Protest

I would like to register my protest against changing our lovely cluster lights for the usual neon variety.

I was born here and spent a number of years in England where I majored in art in my college days. So I have an appreciation of the beauty of the old and the new. Returning to Victoria because of its remembered charms, I resent any tendency to allow it to deteriorate into the commonplace or ordinary type of city.

Deploping any encroachment which would lessen the unique character of our city, I feel that doing away with the cluster lights in favor of a newer installation which would be more exactly described as standardization.

Do whatever is necessary to brighten the clusters, but please leave them intact.

What's So Beautiful?

Would someone kindly tell me what's so beautiful about a bunch of dingy, burnt out or broken cluster lights that give very little more light than an old fashioned kerosene lantern?

In my employment, I often work afternoon shift and if I miss my bus I have to walk. I can assure you it is not at all pleasant, or do I see any beauty as far as the lights go. Walking up streets with several light standards completely out and others with any where from one to four lights out on each standard.

When travelling home in the evening on buses, I've heard many comments regarding these lights, and it wasn't about their beauty. But like myself, I guess, a good many of them do not have the time to write and give their opinion in regards to them.

"ONE FOR DECENT LIGHTING."

Disillusioned

Forty years ago I first visited Victoria—and what a charming place it was. A year ago I came back here to live permanently, and I am a bit disillusioned. Much of the old world charm has vanished. True, we still have the magnificent approach to the city—the chateau-like Empress Hotel facing the harbor, flanked by the imposing Legislative Buildings; across the Strait of Juan de Fuca the magnificent Olympics—immovable, but ever-changing—still rear their snow-capped peaks in all their grandeur.

But, as a city, Victoria seems to be following the pattern of other growing and expanding municipalities. Gone is the leisurely pace of earlier days, replaced by fast-moving traffic and hurrying pedestrians, the latter wearing that worried and anxious look which characterizes this generation.

And now, to cap the climax, we are threatened with the removal of those cluster lights downtown, which are one of the few things left to us to preserve the original charm of our fair and beautiful city. Can nothing be done to convince our City Fathers that Victoria is different and that we, who love beauty and reverence the past, would like to keep it different? Must all that is beautiful and traditional be sacrificed on the altar of so-called progress? Must everything be "functional" (I hate the word) and utilitarian?

Where Lights Are Needed

The City Council is contemplating spending a large sum of the taxpayers' money in replacing the cluster lights in the downtown area. If this is done Victoria will lose much of its distinction and become "cheap and gaudy". The area involved is comparatively small and cars have adequate lights for driving.

There is, however, an area that badly needs efficient lighting. I refer to many of the side streets in the residential areas where women and girls have been attacked. On this street where I live the trees are thick, the lights on one side only and the beam is slanted on the roadway leaving the sidewalks dim and sometimes dark. The sidewalks should be lit. The money to be spent on the downtown streets could be diverted to the residential streets and a start could be made to give adequate light. If this is done I am sure the council will earn the gratitude of many women and elderly people.

Keep Some of It Natural

In this day of rapidly increased pressure of population, space is becoming increasingly precious and natural parks evermore important.

I cannot too heartily endorse the view of Mr. Herb Warren, the parks commissioner, that the natural beauty of Beacon Hill Park be preserved. We have plenty of beautifully manicured lawns and gardens, but it seems to me that it must have been the intention of the original donor (bless his name) that Beacon Hill Park with its natural beauty of Victoria, in some measure be preserved.

I feel the same way about the park acquired by Oak Bay.

Where Credit Is Due

Over the Easter weekend you advertised in both your papers, that on Monday, April 3, a Kilmat school band would put on a concert in the auditorium of the S. J. Willis High School.

I went to that concert with scores of others, and enjoyed the concert thoroughly. The band was comprised of 49 members, each one owning their own instrument. They had all contributed money to be able to make the trip, and must have practised many long hours, to be able to render a concert of real worth. Their young conductor Mr. D. Turman has only been working with the band 3 1/2 years, and it speaks highly for his understanding and discipline, that the department of the band apart from their excellent playing was splendid. The audience gave the band rousing applause, and the writer heard on every hand worthwhile comments on the excellence of the band, for a young group of teenagers, under the baton of a young band leader.

A week passed and there was no write-up about the concert. We hear daily of the wrong doings of this generation of teenagers, partly by reading both your papers. Therefore, would it not be wise to see that we give them full credit for the things they do well?

Rededication—But to What?

THE federal government and the provinces have agreed, according to the news services, that Canada's 1967 Centennial should be "a time of national stocktaking and of rededication for the future."

I think I'm all for that. But I'd like to know what I'm rededicating myself to or what Canadians dedicated themselves to in the first place. Maybe if more of us read the Confederation papers we'd have the answers. Only who has read the Confederation papers?

From a number of fairly authoritative but somewhat cynical sources, I have arrived at the conclusion that Canada's Confederation wasn't so much the expression of a great vision as the effort to make an unworkable situation work. Confederation, I've been told, runs against all the facts of Canada, geographical, historical and cultural. It's an impossible sort of arrangement, some people say, a combination of ingredients that won't mix. For some reason, though, it functions.

Probably quite in error, I picture Confederation as one of the old T-Model Fords, held together with baling wire, tires patched, doors held on with ropes—and capable of running to infinity by sheer miracle.

I've read a little—and forgotten most of it—about the log-rolling that went into Confederation. I keep wondering why I like French-Canadians, whose outlook is substantially different from mine and whom I don't know very well.

It's difficult for me to carry the vision of a great, united land, stretching from sea to sea and inspired by a single ideal of goodness. That isn't quite the way the creation of this nation has been explained to me.

From the earliest days, according to my fragmentary reading of history, Canada developed as the people living here and elsewhere sought to satisfy their relatively selfish wants.

Sure, there were the early missionaries seized with the sublime desire to Christianize the Indians. They had an ideal. And it might be a valuable Centennial project for the Indians if they repaid the commitment by trying to Christianize the white men living here.

Apart from that, most of the big strides made in creating this nation seem to have sprung from what, to use a euphemism, might be called enlightened self-interest.

As I remember it, Jacques Cartier was out to find a closer route to the Indies for better trade, and to assume control of any new land in the name of the king of France. I could be wrong, but I think John and Sebastian Cabot were trying to do the same thing a little earlier for the king of England.

Leif Ericsson, I guess, was looking for some place to get warm, if he wasn't just confused about the way his ship was pointing.

That company of gentlemen adventurers who formed the Hudson's Bay Company—and I still don't know if they restrained their adventuring to the financial end of things snugly home in England—were out for what they could get in furs and anything of value they stumbled upon.

The early explorers, I suppose, wanted to see the other side of the mountain, or what existed beyond the sea of grass. Some, doubtless, were just itchy-footed and could not stand the chores of domesticity.

Maybe the railroad builders were more altruistic. Certainly they created more financial failures than successes. But no doubt the smell of gain also impressed some of them.

Since I don't believe that anything is absolute, I'm not prepared to suggest that these were the only motives which led to development of Canada as a nation.

On the other hand, I can't help thinking how easy it is to create a retroactive grand ideal out of history. Look at it sympathetically enough and you can read all sorts of virtue into its pages. You can trace manifest destiny at work—whatever that may mean.

You're still left wondering to what Canadians dedicated themselves, except something good for themselves, as they built up the nation. There's nothing wrong with that.

But what are we going to rededicate ourselves to six years from now? Maybe a little more enlightened self-interest? If so I hope the emphasis is on "enlightened."

YOUR INCOME TAX TIPS

(Fourteenth in a Series)

There are many people in this area who receive rental income from an apartment building, a house, or a duplex. In all cases these earnings must be reported.

The expenses incurred in earning this income are deductible. You should either complete page 4 of the T-1 General Tax Form or file a separate operating statement with your return, showing the total rents collected and the different expenses incurred.

TWO POINTS

The T-1 General Information sheet will be of help to all receiving rental income. Two particular points of importance discussed on this sheet are:

capital cost allowance (depreciation) and rental of part of a residence.

Capital cost allowance is an important type of expense allowed to the property owner. The taxpayer need not claim the maximum allowance in any one year.

Different classes of assets are allowed different rates of capital cost allowances. (Frame buildings 10 per cent, furnishings 20 per cent, etc.)

If you sell your rental property for more than its depreciated value for income tax purposes, some or all of the capital allowance you have claimed in past years is "recaptured" and is subject to income tax. There are, however, certain relieving provisions in the Income Tax Act.

CONSULT ACCOUNTANT

We would advise, if this item is of importance to you, that you consult your professional accountant for advice, as he can often save you from making mistakes in dealing with the somewhat complicated subject.

Rental income is not considered as investment income and is therefore not subject to the 4 per cent investment income surtax. This provision of the Income Tax Act also covers rents received through an estate or trust.

List Your Spring Jobs

All gardeners are faced with a mass of spring jobs to be done. The only way to retain a sense of pleasure and relaxation in the work is to decide which must be done first, and do it.

A sheet of paper divided into two columns can help to eliminate a sense of frustration.

In the first column list the garden jobs to be done "now"—within three days; the other column can be headed "later."

List all the jobs, no matter how small, even though it is the repotting of a half dozen geraniums. Studying the two lists, a date can be set for each job, doing the most urgent things first.

Some can be accomplished a little ahead of time, leaving more leisure for certain operations which are a particular pleasure to the individual gardener.

For instance, unsprouted dahlia tubers, or those which have only tiny shoots visible, can be planted now in well prepared soil. If planted under six inches of soil they will not come through until danger of frost or cold winds is passed. They can be growing while something else is being done. If the tubers have green shoots they will need to be planted in flats or pots of soil, later transferring the whole root mass and soil to the garden. In the meantime, the plants will need the lightest, but coolest, place in greenhouse or porch. A cold frame, with extra covers over the glass on cold nights will be fine.

At the end of a day, or a few hours in the garden, take the list and mark off the jobs accomplished. It can be astonishing how such a simple plan can bring order out of chaos, and the list can serve as a time-saving guide again next year if it is pinned or glued into the garden notebook.

Urban Taxes Up in Saanich

ON HIGHWAYS

Province Breaks Own Statutes

Saanich Comptroller John Tribe told a finance committee Wednesday that the provincial government ignores and breaks its own laws.

As an example he referred to the failure of the government to pay half the costs of reconstruction of Quadra which has been declared a secondary highway.

Saanich in 1960 received only $27,000 towards the project instead of a matching grant of $70,000.

Mr. Tribe said the Highways Act states that the government "shall" pay half the costs towards reconstruction of secondary highways.

"But it looks like the act means nothing to the government and the amount it will pay is entirely dependent on the whim of a minister," he said.

Saanich has repeatedly requested the government to pay its full share of the road project.

But the highways department has claimed it is not bound to do so.

Cost of law enforcement increased by $11,000, he said. The principal items were $4,200 for the prosecutor and $5,500 for children's and family court. Expenditures for public works also jumped by $40,000. A total of $20,000 of this figure is for winter works.

Social welfare also went up $12,000 and the Victoria Public Library $3,300.

Delay Start Of Hearing In Conspiracy

Start of a preliminary hearing for three Victorians charged with conspiracy to perjure was delayed at least to the beginning of May in city police court Wednesday.

The Crown unexpectedly withdrew the original joint charge against Sandor Domokos and his wife Winnifred, and Beryl Ann Fisher, substituting a joint charge against the husband and wife and separate charge against Mrs. Fisher.

The matter arose out of a trial for assault, against Domokos, which subsequently was dismissed.

The complainant in that case was a former business partner with the Domokos couple—W. A. Scott.

Prosecutor Angus Smith, apologizing to defence counsel James Proudfoot (Fisher) and G. J. Sullivan (Domokos) who expected the preliminary to proceed, said he did not wish the matter to go on in improper form and had given much consideration to his move.

Mrs. Fisher elected trial by judge and jury and was remanded to May 1 to set a date for preliminary. The Domokos reserved election for Monday.

'GAIETY IS ESSENTIAL PART OF CHRISTIANITY'

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret said Wednesday that gaiety is "an essential part of Christianity."

The princess, who is president of the Church of England Youth Council, told the council's annual conference here of her visits to many British parishes.

"I have been encouraged," she said, "by the extent to which, in many places, young people of all kinds are taking part in the church and bringing fresh life to the Christian community by their vigor and sincerity—and gaiety, which is to my mind an essential part of Christianity."

Her words were greeted with loud applause.

'CAUTIOUS OPTIMISM'

Publishers See Economic Upturn

TORONTO (CP) — Newspaper executives gathered here for their 1961 meetings look forward with cautious optimism to an economic upturn. They differ whether the big swing will come in six months or a year.

The newspapermen's views contrast with those of a year ago when they saw the construction and development of the 1950s beginning to pay off in the 1960s.

While they see bright spots in foreign orders for grain, new industries and an improved outlook for the tourist business, they consider agriculture and the fisheries as uncertain.

Some blame Canada's economic troubles on over-expansion in the 1950s, the close tie-in with the United States economy—in the doldrums itself—and the belief that Canada is pricing herself out of world markets.

An increasing population, vast natural resources and development of secondary industry are seen as factors in the country's long-term development.

The newspaper men, here for the annual meetings of the Canadian Press and Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, were asked to express their views on the 1961 outlook for their provinces.

Their cautious outlook on the country's economy as a whole, was reflected in their views of their own business where they expect that 1961 will be marginally better than last year.

'No Place For Laggard'—Vanier

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Georges Vanier, with a plea for Canada to seek her destiny through development of human resources, said Wednesday-night "there is no place for a laggard in this age of space and speed."

The governor-general spoke at the annual dinner of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news-gathering agency.

Gen. Vanier said the traditional view that Canada is assured a great future "simply because of the existence of great gifts of nature" is dangerous. He disagreed with the premise that Canada depends on its forests for its livelihood.

"I believe that Canada depends on its people for its livelihood. Had the forests not been available the people would have found other means of support or else they would have gone somewhere else."

Accept No Raise

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two more groups of civic employees have agreed to 1961 contracts which provide for improved benefits, but no salary increases. They are the electricians, who are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (I.B.E.W.) and employees at the airport, a total of about 60 workers. Civic inside and outside workers settled on the same basis previously.

CP Re-Elects President

TORONTO (CP) — John Motz of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record was re-elected president of The Canadian Press Wednesday by his fellow directors of the news co-operative.

Charles Peters, Montreal Gazette, was re-elected honorary president; A. F. Mercier, Quebec Levenement-Journal, first vice-president, and John Bassett, Toronto Telegram, second vice-president.

Elected director for B.C. was Stuart Keate of Victoria Daily Times. Tribute was paid to board chairman Philip Fisher of the Southam Co. Arthur Ford of the London Free Press and W. H. Morton of the Belleville, Ont., Intelligencer, who have retired.

U.S. Adopts Our Production Idea

BY GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Latest thing to hit the U.S. auto industry, according to Exchange, magazine of the New York Stock Exchange, is "production flexibility"—the ability to switch production lines rapidly from one model to another as demand arises rather than limiting each line to one model.

This may be the newest thing in the U.S. but, according to R. J. Orr, marketing director for Studebaker-Packard Corp. of Hamilton, it's nothing new for Canada.

Mr. Orr, who was in Victoria during a tour of Canadian dealers, points out that for years U.S. production experts visiting Canadian auto factories were amazed to see various models of cars rolling along production lines one after the other. They couldn't see the sense of this kind of operation.

However, the revolution in the U.S. industry caused by the compacts has brought about the same concept of production line manufacture as the Canadian industry evolved through its need to produce in a market of limited size.

Mr. Orr, who is widely known in the industry throughout Canada, has been associated with several Canadian car manufacturers and a British motor firm in Canada, and was appointed to the top Studebaker-Packard marketing post one month ago after two years spent in work outside the industry.

An encouraging upturn in sales was reported by Mr. Orr.

Mr. Orr said that while car sales in Canada generally were still down slightly, his firm had recently increased production by about 10 per cent and expected that another similar increase would be called for soon.

Van-Tor Oils and Exploration Ltd. statement shows assets at Dec. 31 of $1,258, liabilities of $18,483 and $1,334, 500 outstanding in general mortgage serial debentures on which interest payment was waived for 1960 and modified for 1961.

Van-Tor's subsidiary, Vancouver Island Gas Co. Ltd., almost wholly-owned—had net loss of $89,546 in 1960 and is negotiating with bondholders for rearrangement of the debt structure.

DEFICIT SEEN

OTTAWA (CP)—An operating budget deficit of $64,000,000 for 1961, compared with $67,497,000 last year, was predicted by the CNR in documents tabled in the Commons Wednesday.

The budget papers said the 1961 operating forecast was based on 1960 material prices and wage and freight rates continuing unchanged this year.

Protectionism Not Answer

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's unlikely Canada will adopt a severe protectionist position against imported automobiles, says Werner Janssen, Toronto, managing director of Volkswagen Canada Ltd.

In an interview here Wednesday night on his arrival for the opening today of a new company Pacific region office and parts warehouse plant, Mr. Janssen said protectionism would prejudice Canada's position as a world trader.

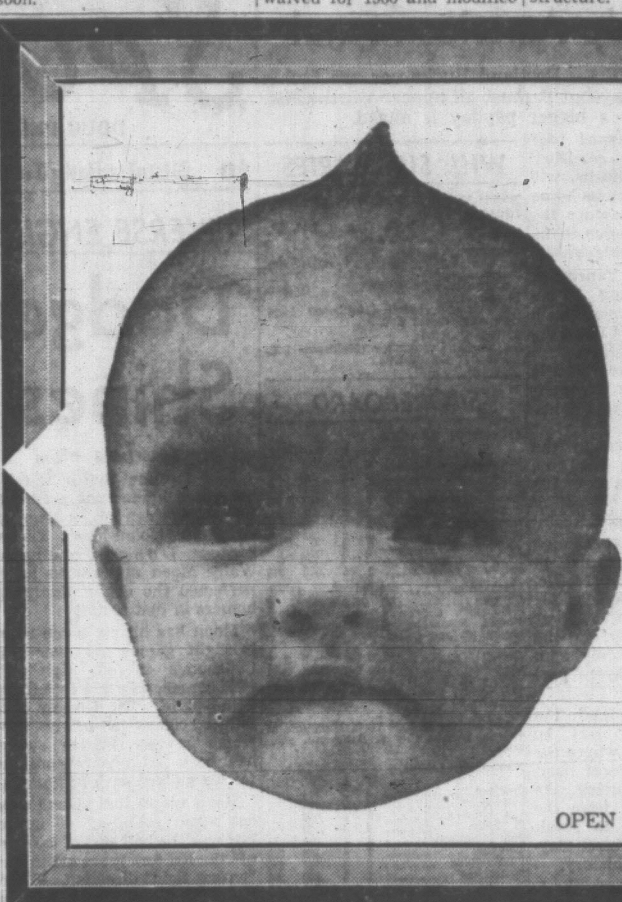

He added, "... Canada is the world's fourth trading nation and must defend this position."

"West Germany is Canada's third biggest customer. In 1960 Canada bought $126,000,000 worth of goods from West Germany and in turn West Germany spent $166,000,000 in Canada."

"Volkswagen accounted for 25 to 30 per cent of West Germany's exports to Canada."

Blood Lures Fans

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI)

The same thing that draws people to bull fights figures to lure a full house into Boston Garden on Saturday night when Paul Pender defends his some-place middleweight title against Carmen Basilio.

It's been the same since those savage spectacles in the Coliseum of ancient Rome. And the present day aficionados of spitted T-bone on the hoof can debate all they want to about the alleged beauties of bull-sticking's "Moment of Truth."

They want to gaze on somebody's gore.

It's simply a shame that it has to happen to a nice fellow like Basilio.

Carmen, in the vernacular of the business, is a "right guy." A gentle family man and dutiful husband who always has shunned the bright lights. Basilio quietly raises two nephews as his own sons. His idea of contentment is a fishing rod and a quiet lake.

Which is the setting in which his friends would rather see him.

GRANITE CHIN

Because Basilio at 34, despite a granite chin and boundless courage, is a victim of time and has a skin they love to cut. And after 13 years as a club fighter there is wisdom in the pleas of his wife, Kay, that he step down.

"I used to take three punches to land one because I didn't know how to do it any other way," Basilio once admitted. "After a while, though, you find yourself making the right moves to slip punches."

Okay, so now you only take two to land one.

But there is no denying that, in 75 bouts, the pleasant little man would seem to have taken sufficient while still being fortunate enough to maintain his full equilibrium.

In those 75 bouts he has gone 625 rounds. That figures out to 31 hours and 15 minutes of being mauled and buffeted, not counting the blows absorbed in training. That, and his appearance after too many of them, is more than enough to shake up those who cherish him as a man.

TIME IN HOSPITAL

As a case in point, there was a rather easy fight for Carmen when he knocked out Johnny Saxton in two rounds to defend the welterweight title in 1957. Even Carmen was pleasantly surprised when he turned from the mirror and commented happily:

"Can you imagine me looking the same after a fight as before?"

It calls for quite an imagination, at that, and the last three years have been by far among the hardest. When he lost to Ray Robinson at Chicago in their middleweight title fight in March of 1958, Basilio had to spend nine days in a hospital for treatment of a lacerated eyelid.

Subsequently, he was knocked out by Gene Fullmer in 14 brutal rounds at San Francisco in 1959 and again by Fullmer in 12 tortuous rounds at Salt Lake City last year. His two recent victories over a pair of welterweights named Gaspar Ortega and Don Jordan supposedly "qualified" him for a shot at Pender, recognized as middleweight champion in New York, Massachusetts and certain foreign precincts.

Basilio is sensitive when pressed as to why he continues fighting and the obvious answer is that he needs the pay day. Where then, one wonders, did the ring earnings go.

It serves as a partial answer that his managerial corps testified last year that it paid a total of $35,000 to convicted undercover manager, Gabe Genove, from 1956 through 1959 for help in arranging matches advantageous to Basilio.

Fighters long have been bled too much. And now the little man named Basilio must bleed some more.

Bucks Willing to Wait For Chance to Go Home

Portland Ousts Vancouver To Set Up American Final

VANCOUVER — Portland Buckaroos are facing a week's rest today but it must all appear worthwhile. The Bucks know a bigger payday is ahead.

Buckaroos, orphaned for their best-of-five semifinal with Vancouver Canucks, will return to their luxurious home in an attempt to capture the Western Hockey League championship in their rookie season.

They disposed of Vancouver Canucks — defending champions — in four games when they whipped them 4-1 in Vancouver Wednesday night.

Portland now faces Seattle Totems in the first all-American final in the league's history.

First three games in the best-of-seven series will be played in Portland's new 10,000-seat Coliseum starting next Wednesday night.

It will be a vast change from the semifinal round, in which the Buckaroos used Victoria's Memorial Arena for their home games. Crowds at Victoria were skimpy and the players can expect only slim pickings from the players' pool from the semifinal.

However, in the final, the first three games will be played in the arena where the Bucks attracted several near-capacity crowds during the season and receipts from the finals are expected to result in perhaps the healthiest players' pool in league history.

Coach Hal Laycoe says he is anticipating a tough series with Seattle.

FINISHED FOURTH

The Totems finished fourth in league play but whipped league-winning Calgary Stampede in five games.

Laycoe says Totems will benefit from the extended rest they will have—10 days.

Buckaroos will be handicapped by the fact that their practices will be limited to skating at a shopping-centre rink at the same time the ice is used for public skating.

The coliseum is unavailable to the Buckaroos — as it has been since the semifinals started — because there is a home show being held there.

CANUCKS OUTCLASSED

Loss of their home arena had no effect on the Buckaroos, however, as they completely outclassed the Canucks in all but one game in their series. The only defeat they suffered was a 2-1 setback last Saturday in Vancouver.

They won the other three games, 5-1, 5-0 and 4-1.

Canucks, through the season, relied on an air-tight defence to make up for their deficiencies on offence.

IN COMMAND

But the tight-checking Portland crew had little difficulty containing the Vancouver attack.

Wednesday night was no exception. Portland scored a goal in every period and never was in trouble.

Defenceman Jack Bionda made it 1-0 for Portland in the first period with a 30-foot screen shot from the point.

Arnie Schmutz got the second Portland goal in the second period when he converted a pass from centre Art Jones.

Bruce Carmichael got that goal back for Vancouver by flipping the puck over Portland goalie Don Head after Head had blocked a shot from Larry Popein.

Larry Leach made it 3-1 before the period ended and winger Bill McCulley finished off the scoring for Buckaroos in the third period.

Layritz Tryouts

Tryouts for prospective baseball players in the Layritz Pony League will commence this weekend.

League officials have announced that the tryouts will start Saturday at 10 a.m. at Layritz Park. Additional sessions are carded for next Monday and Tuesday, beginning at 6 p.m.

LURE FOR TOURISTS

Garibaldi Best Economic Choice

VANCOUVER (CP) — Development of Garibaldi Park as a major outdoor winter sports centre would boost flow of tourist dollars into Canada by $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year, according to an economic study released Wednesday.

The study was made by Dr. John Davis, British Columbia Electric director of research for the Garibaldi Olympic Development Association in its campaign to sell the British Columbia site for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

It said Garibaldi is the best economic choice for development of a Canadian Winter Olympic site because more people with more money to spend would use it every year.

Garibaldi has a total population of 4,600,000 to draw from within 300 miles of Vancouver and by 1968 the total will be 5,405,000. This is three times larger than the people within 300 miles of Banff, Alta.

The report went on to say the personal income of the population within 300 miles of Vancouver is $10,087,000 and will jump to $14,309,000 by 1968, more than four times that of the area served by Banff.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government never has received a reply from British Columbia to suggested terms by which Garibaldi Park could be made a national park, Resources Minister Dinsdale said Wednesday.

He said there has been no change in the situation since he told the Commons last year that the federal government had advised British Columbia that it was willing to take over the provincial park if the land was deeded to the federal authority, free of all encumbrances.

The minister was replying to John Taylor PC—Vancouver Burrard.

Helsinki Detective Repeats 'Shadow' Job

BOSTON (CP) — Finland's Eino Oksanen, a Helsinki police detective, Wednesday won the Boston Marathon for the second time by "shadowing" Johnny Kelley of the United States just as he did 10 years ago.

Oksanen did a remorseless follow-the-leader job on Kelley until the final half-mile of the grind of 26 miles and 365 yards, then he breezed past the Connecticut school teacher.

Oksanen's time in chilly weather — it snowed during part of the race — was two hours, 23 minutes, 29 seconds. Kelley was second in 2:23:54 after suffering a nasty spill near the three-quarter mark when he fell over a frisking dog.

Fred Norris, a transplanted Briton, was third in 2:25:54. Of five Canadian entries, English-born Sid Smith, 42, of Hamilton, made the best showing, placing 40th in three hours and three seconds. As the first Canadian, the 118-pound runner was awarded a trophy by the Canadian-American Society of Boston.

MATCHES FROM MORNING UNTIL DUSK

Life on Tournament Trail Can Be Hard Work

Victoria's Susan Butt, top-ranked women's singles tennis player in Canada, is on a tour of the European net circuits. While on the tour, Miss Butt is writing a series of articles exclusively for The Daily Times. Here, Sue writes about the recent Nice, France, tournament.

By SUSAN BUTT

Aix-En-Provence, France — Life on the European tennis circuit is always interesting, but it can also be strenuous work.

One of the most exhausting stops was at the recent tournament at Nice. Because of an unusually large entry list, matches were scheduled from early morning until dusk. It was fun, but this time it was harder work than usual.

There were no sightseeing trips and no parties for contestants as officials went about the job of getting the huge draw sheets trimmed down for the final day.

Playing three events, women's singles, women's doubles and mixed doubles, I found I had to report at the courts at 10 in the morning for my first match.

Four matches later, after dark, I would find myself straggling back to the hotel with a group of other exhausted tennis players. All had done a full day's work.

On Tuesday the women's singles began and I was scheduled to play two matches.

The first was easy, but as the sun went down I was still out battling Madam Gauthier of Paris in the third set of a long and tiring second-round match.

My opponent had a forehand like a cannonball and some sort of a slicing backhand that defies description.

She served underhand and often when the first ball was a fault, the second serve had left her racket before the first had landed.

I was leading 3-0 in the third set when my opponent suddenly made her way to the net and announced that she was defaulting on account of "les cramps" in her legs.

I quickly gathered by racquet, thanked the umpire and left the court before she had a chance to change her mind.

Although I had my opponent on the ropes at the time of the default, I was weary and quite happy to finish the match at that point.

If the ladies were gracious hosts last year, then they have made a complete about face in the current Empress Hotel golf tournament.

Victoria women left the championship flight entirely to the visitors after the first round a year ago, but this time they have designs on making the 31st annual tournament an all-Victoria affair.

Three Victoria golfers and medalist Mrs. Robert Young from Tacoma, Wash., moved into the quarter-finals Wednesday. Mrs. Young, finalist in the 1957 Pacific Northwest Golf Association championship, was joined in the fours by Maureen Hibberson, N.S. G. H. Lovitt and Mrs. B. Price, all of the host Uplands Club.

Mrs. Hibberson, well-known in northwest tennis and badminton circles, moved into the semifinals with the easiest victory of the day—a 7 and 5 conquest of Portland's Mrs. R. D. Pollock.

Canadian golfers are assured of three out of four berths in Friday's championship flight semifinals of the annual Empress tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

At Olson, Burlington, Wash., and Pross Clark, Portland, the only United States players, remaining in the running of the men's championship, clashed today in the quarter-finals.

The third American to reach today's round, Jens Hansen of Seattle, was forced to return home today, thus defaulting to Vancouver's A. E. Trethewey, which meant only one U.S. swinger could reach the semis.

In the other two matches scheduled today, J. D. Mathews, Calgary, met E. I. Balch, Edmonton, and Calgary's R. H. Kelly was up against V. Gilmour of Vancouver.

The south-of-the-border contingent suffered badly in Wednesday's play as six Americans were knocked out of contention, one of them by a fellow national.

TWO CANUCKS LOSE

By contrast, only two Canadians dropped decisions to visiting swingers.

Luck of the draw placed Hansen and E. LeClerc against each other and Hansen squeaked by the highly-rated Portland player, one up.

High winds which plagued visiting golfers Tuesday subsided for the most part Wednesday and gusty rather, which can skyrocket scores on the tricky seaford course, was expected to hold off for the remainder of the tourney.

Championship flight results: W. Gilmour (Vanc) defeated Dr. C. W. Coffin (Port), 3 up; J. D. Mathews (Cal) defeated P. O. Peterson (Sea), 3 and 2; E. I. Balch (Ed) defeated Don Johnson (Corvallis), 4 and 3; A. E. Trethewey (Vanc) defeated J. E. Green (Sea), 3 and 1; Jens Hansen (Sea) defeated E. LeClerc (Ed), 3 up; Al Olson (Burl) defeated S. A. Mason (Cal), 2 up; Pross Clark (Port) defeated J. Vair Anderson (Cal), 2 up.

English Returns To Vics

Into each life must come a little sorrow but Arnie Ferguson seems to have had more than his share.

The coach of Victoria's Inter-City Lacrosse Club was beginning to wonder just how black things could become for his youthful squad's prospects this season but discovered a silver lining Wednesday.

Rugged defenceman Tom English, now living in Vancouver, reversed a previous stand and agreed to sign with the Victoria club.

TRANSFER REFUSED

English had previously applied to the league for permission to transfer to a mainland team and had settled on sitting out the season when this was refused.

He will live in Vancouver, play all Victoria games in the mainland city and commute to Nanaimo and Victoria for games in the Island centres whenever possible.

Ferguson also hopes to corral forward Bob McKeen but has given up hope on starry Stu Smith, another former Victorian who now lives in Vancouver.

Contributing to Ferguson's woes has been the unavailability of Memorial Arena for practice although it is scheduled to be ready for the club Friday night. If not, the team will return to Stevenson Park Sunday morning.

EDINBURGH (AP)—Hibernian of Scotland and Roma of Italy tied 2-2 in the first leg of their European inter-city Fairs Cup semifinal soccer match Wednesday night.

Cleaner House May Not Help

NEW YORK (AP)—Sonny Liston, No. 1 world heavyweight boxing contender, may get his long-sought crack at Floyd Patterson's title next year if he satisfies all concerned that he is free of undesirable associates.

Liston said Wednesday night he had several offers for the contract, but added he thought it would be a week or two before he decided on a new manager. He denied he would be managed by former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, who has been reported interested in acquiring the contract.

Frank De Rice, owner of a restaurant chain in Montreal, is one of those bidding for Liston's contract. A former pro fighter, De Rice, reached at his winter home in Delray Beach, Fla., said he thought the contract could be bought for $150,000 or $200,000.

Patterson, who has refused to consider a bout with Liston because of his associates, said Sonny "will still have to prove that he is free of all outside harmful influences" before he can qualify for a title bout.

But his parting with manager Joseph "Pep" Barone Wednesday brought only lukewarm reactions from two or three most concerned—Patterson and Senator Estes Kefauver, sponsor of a bill to place boxing in the United States under federal control.

Consumers to Pay For Water Scheme

The $185,000 water distribution plan to be voted on April 29 by Central Saanich Ratepayers will give a much-needed boost to the municipality's agricultural industry, Reeve R. Gordon Lee said today.

"Horticulture is our only industry in Central Saanich," he said. "We think this water scheme will allow it to expand, and to help the industry generally. Already we have 14 applications for irrigation outlets."

He said opposition to the bylaw is based on the fear that it will increase taxation.

"The whole cost will be borne by consumers," he said. "We have 70 applications now for household connections, and all of these have paid a deposit. In my opinion we have enough applications to assure the system being a success economically."

He said the council intends to maintain rigid control over "urbanization," and to preserve the green belt and farm areas.

PEOPLE COMING

"Some of our residents don't want the municipality to change, nor the population to increase," the reeve said. "Newcomers are going to settle here whether the residents like it or not and we are ready to regulate the growth."

There are several good markets for water outside the municipal boundaries, he said, but the people of Central Saanich should have the first chance to use it.

The bylaw was discussed at a public meeting Tuesday night, and will come up for discussion again at Brentwood Hall April 25 and the Saanich Agricultural Hall April 27.

Contract Let

COURTENAY — A $22,800 contract for dredging Courtenay River has been let to North Western Dredging Co. Ltd. of Vancouver.

The work is part of a $41,000 transport department program to improve the river. Preliminary work has begun, and the job will continue for about six weeks.

School Taxes To Come Down In District 67

NORTH COWICHAN — School taxes in that portion of North Cowichan municipality in School District 67 will be 3.5 mills less than estimated, and one-half mill lower than the tax of last year, Reeve Don Morton told the municipal council Wednesday.

Increased supplementary grants from the provincial government account for the relief to the municipality, he said.

Tax rate for this year is 23.5 mills, and the municipality's share of the District 67 costs will be $153,630.

School tax rate for that portion of the municipality in Cowichan School District 65 is 19 mills, one-half mill higher than last year, and will produce $396,418.

FIT TO BE CLOSED

General tax rate for the municipality as a whole is 10.5 mills.

It was announced that the provincial highways department has agreed to close a gravel pit on Uplands Road. Residents had complained that it was the scene of drinking parties and hot-rod racing.

The council acknowledged that "history had been made" Wednesday when the School District 67 education week committee returned $19.88 of a $25 council grant.

"This is the first time to my knowledge that any group has ever returned a portion of a grant to us," Reeve Morton said.

Involved in Forgery Ring, Mainland Woman Remanded

NANAIMO (CP) — Alfreda Isabelle Halls of Vancouver pleaded guilty in police court Wednesday to 13 charges of uttering forged documents, or worthless money orders. She was remanded until May 3 for sentence.

Total amount involved is more than $1,200.

Police stated that the postal money orders were stolen in Vancouver. They were in amounts of $98 and $95. Three of them were cashed in Nanaimo, one at Parkville, six at Port Alberni, and two at Victoria.

Two men are in custody awaiting trial of similar charges in connection with the case. Roger Arthur Lampitt of Vancouver and John Harold Hallborn of Chemainus will appear April 26.

COURTENAY — A scheme for public access to Gold River might arise out of a meeting in Campbell River April 26, it has been suggested by Dan Campbell, Comox MLA.

Ministers of lands and forests and recreation and conservation are scheduled to discuss the matter with officials of Scott Paper Company.

There is a road connecting the Campbell Lake area with Gold River, a logging community on the west coast of Vancouver Island, but it is controlled by the Elk River Timber Company, a subsidiary of Scott Paper, and the East Asiatic Timber Company. Access is rigidly restricted to officials and employees of both companies.

NANAIMO (CP) — Recreation Minister Earle Westwood has promised to check any recent information on the availability of iron ore with a view to seeing if it is of high enough quality to warrant establishment of a steel mill in British Columbia.

He was commenting on a brief presented Tuesday by the Nanaimo committee of the B.C. Federation of the Unemployed.

Mr. Westwood agreed with the brief that a smelter and

He was well known as the builder of the stone house on the Malahat shore of Saanich Inlet which became a landmark for sports fishermen.

He built the house himself, starting in 1920 and finishing six years later. It was his home for 40 years, until he moved to a cabin nearer the highway.

Mr. Carto was born in New York state, and first went to work here at the age of 13. He prospected, worked as a miner, and eventually became a foreman on the Goldstream dam and pipeline projects.

'Sane, Sensible' To Export Power

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Williston proposed Wednesday that generators be installed in the planned Mica Creek Dam on the Columbia River at the time of construction and that surplus power be sold in the United States.

His suggestion came in a meeting here as he pushed the provincial government's campaign to win a change in federal policy which bans the export of hydro power.

The Mica Dam in the initial stage of Columbia development plans is a storage dam only, but Mr. Williston said, "If we had a policy we would put in generators at a slight additional cost of the dam to reduce power costs to all people in B.C."

He said: "The only sane and sensible thing for us to do is to work for export of power. We have the greatest hydroelectric potential on the North American continent but we can't store power and we can't save it."

"We'd have the greatest job boom in B.C. right now if we could only export power. We could develop our country in the north, south, east and west."

Munich city council in Germany has approved construction of a $15,000,000, 60,000-kilowatt power plant designed to use garbage for fuel.

LOCAL BRIEFS

A. G. GILMORE
... to address palsy group

Annual meeting of Lower Vancouver Island Cerebral Palsy Association will take place in the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, 1040 Moss Street, 8 p.m. Monday.

Guest speaker will be A. G. Gilmore, former Community Chest secretary.

Deadline for judgments on assessment appeals has been extended by the B.C. government from May 15 to June 15.

Reason, according to government officials is to give appeal boards more time to complete their case loads.

Provincial archivist Willard E. Ireland has been re-appointed a member of Victoria College Council for a further four years.

The cabinet approved the extension for Mr. Ireland Tuesday. He will remain a council member until June, 1965.

Because St. George's Day this year falls on a Sunday—April 23—Victoria branch, Royal Society of St. George, will hold its annual St. George's day dinner on Monday, April 24.

The dinner will take place in the Olde England Inn, Lamson Street, and will start at 6.30 p.m.

Some 200 B.C. Toastmasters and their wives are scheduled to meet in Vernon Saturday for their annual district conference.

District governor J. W. McEay will head a band of local delegates of representatives of all six Toastmaster clubs in Victoria.

Capital City Speakers Group Tuesday night presented a gavel and block to City Clerk Frank Hunter who founded the club in 1946. Presentation at the annual meeting was made by past-president Ray Kersey who also declared Mr. Hunter a life member of the group.

Granby Sells Ore To Japan Interests

VANCOUVER (CP)—Granby Mining Co. has signed a contract with a Japanese firm for 2,000,000 long tons of iron ore concentrates from its optioned property in the Queen Charlotte Islands of British Columbia's north coast.

The deal with Sumitomo Shoji Kaisha Ltd. of Tokyo is estimated to be worth in excess of $18,000,000.

Larry T. Postle, president of Granby, said Monday that directors have decided to take up the $1,000,000 option on the iron ore property from Silver Standard Mines Ltd.

EICHMANN'S 400,000-WORD STATEMENT

'I Was Never Anti-Semitic'

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann says he never was anti-Semitic and, in fact, was 'distantly related to Jews' through his stepmother.

The text of a 400,000-word statement he dictated into a tape recorder after he was flown to Israel from Argentina was released today.

It revealed that he feels some sense of guilt that the Nazis killed 6,000,000 European Jews, but that he insists the crime rests on the souls of other men.

Some of his stepmother's relatives, both men and women, married Jews, Eichmann said. His "Aunt Dorschi" was a Jewess and at the height of the Nazi terror he helped her daughter escape to Switzerland, he said.

Although this is a prosecution document, in part it sounds like a plea for the defence. Eichmann seeks to justify his conduct on the grounds that he was a minor officer obeying orders. Policy was formed, he said, by Adolf Hitler, Heinrich Himmler and Reinhard Heydrich. All are dead.

Eichmann said that after visiting the extermination camps in Poland he even protested to his superior officers against the killing of the Jews. He said he was worried about the effect of the holocaust on the character of the youth of Germany.

He asked to be relieved of duty as the traffic officer who directed the long trains that carried Jews to their death.

He was ordered back to work, and obeyed. His reluctance to be even a minor part of the horror never quite jelled into resolution and resignation.

'I WAS NEVER'

Excerpts from the Eichmann statement:

"Himmler must have received direct orders from Hitler for the physical extermination of the Jews. I have never seen a written order. I only know that Heydrich said to me: 'The Fuehrer has ordered the physical destruction of the Jew.' He said it as clearly and surely as I repeat it now."

'SIMPLY CANNOT'

When SS Lt.-Gen. Odilo Globocnik ordered Eichmann to visit Auschwitz, I said to him: "Please don't send me there. Send someone else. Someone who is more robust. There are plenty of others who can stand seeing that. They won't keel over. I dream—I simply cannot, General. But he paid no attention to me."

"At home I learned no hatred against the Jews. My entire upbringing by my mother and father was strictly Christian."

SHOW OF FORCE MARKS ISRAEL ANNIVERSARY

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Israel paraded its military might here today on what would have been the 72nd birthday of Hitler, who tried to destroy the Jewish race.

Tanks rumbled over the parade ground while men and women soldiers marched along the three-mile route in observance of the 13th anniversary of the founding of the Jewish state.

About 250,000 persons lined the parade route and their cheers, echoed into the cell of Adolf Eichmann, who carried out Hitler's grim extermination policy. Eichmann's trial for the murder of 6,000,000 Jews was adjourned for the day.

The cavities these young people didn't have should change your mind about toothpaste

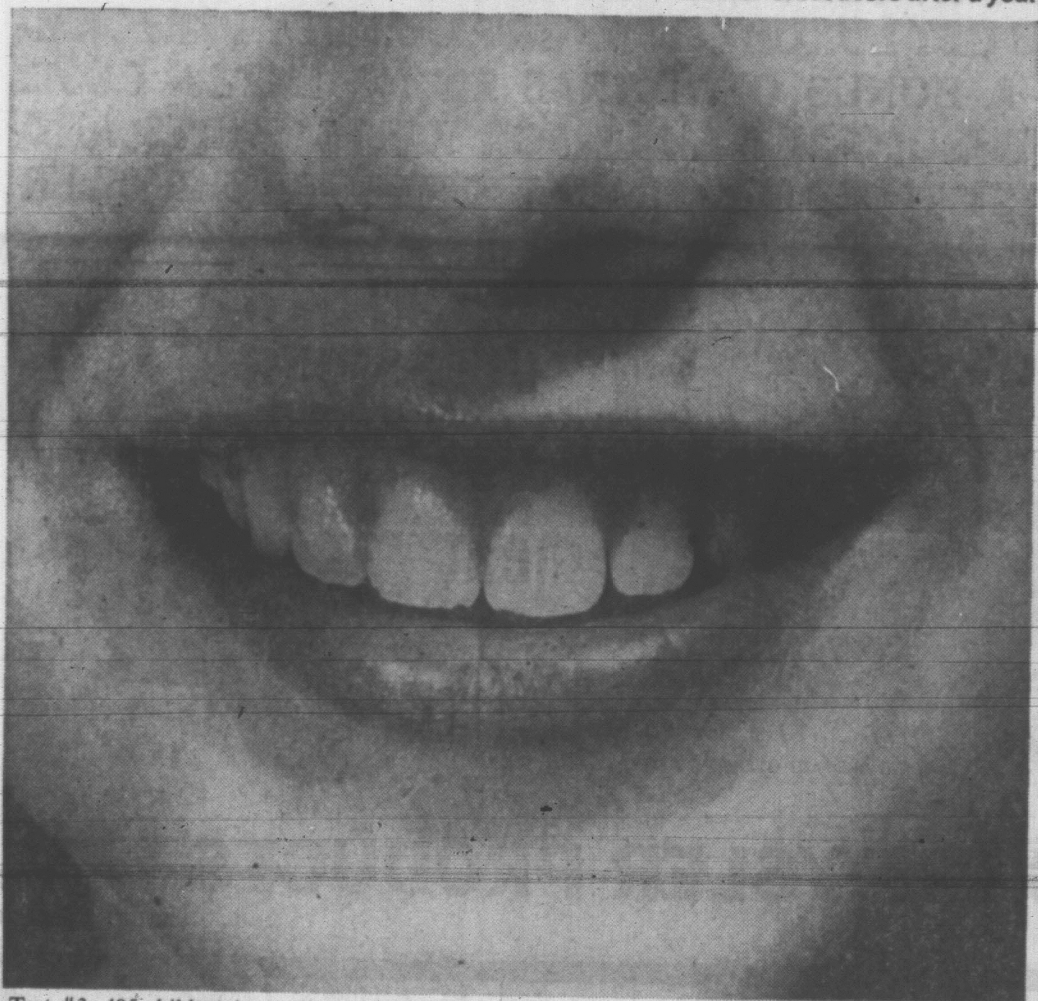

Test #1: 423 children in grade school. Half the children used Crest, half an identical toothpaste without Crest's exclusive decay fighter. Both groups followed their usual brushing habits.

Result: 49% fewer cavities for Crest users after a year

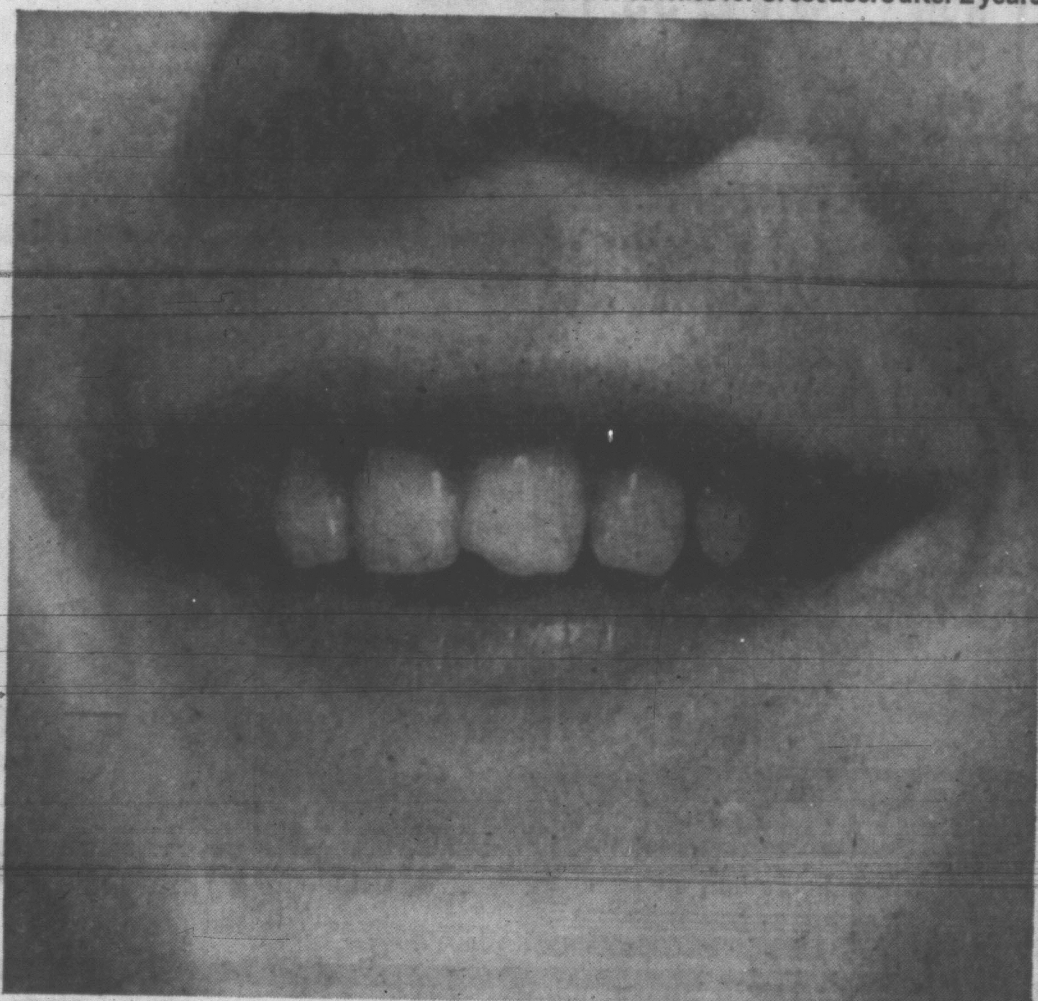

Test #2: 247 young adults at a university. Again the group was split—half used Crest, half the other toothpaste. Both groups followed usual brushing habits, and neither knew which toothpaste was which.

Result: 34% fewer cavities for Crest users after 2 years

Test #3: 405 children in grade school. Half used Crest, half the other toothpaste. This time everyone was supervised in one brushing a day at school, and encouraged to brush at home as usual.

Result: 21% fewer cavities for Crest users after 2 years

Test #4: 190 military school students. Conditions were identical for those who used Crest and those who used the other toothpaste, as usual. Everyone brushed three times a day under supervision.

Result: 46% fewer cavities for Crest users after 21 months

Fewer cavities for the Crest users in every test and now you can start reducing cavities with Crest.

Now Procter & Gamble brings you Crest—the first toothpaste that's shown it reduces cavities.

How has Crest shown it reduces cavities? Through scientific tests like the ones you see above.

And these are just a sample. Actually, Crest has been tested continually over the last eight years on more than two thousand people. (Many of them children just like your own.)

The results are part of the record. Results that have been reported in professional dental journals.

In every single test, Crest users had fewer cavities.

And Crest is now made in Canada and available at Canadian stores.

What makes Crest different? Fluoristan*—Crest's proven, patented decay-preventive. A special fluoride formula that helps strengthen your tooth enamel against decay every time you brush with Crest.

Rules of dental health still apply. Naturally, we want you to get the full benefit from Crest and Fluoristan. So we'd like to make it clear that the real key to good dental health is not the use of Crest alone . . . but the use of Crest as part of a complete dental program:

1. You still should brush regularly—after each meal is best.
2. You still should brush properly—away from gums and make sure you brush every tooth.
3. You still should watch those treats between meals—treats can be overdone—so follow your dentist's advice.
4. You still should see your dentist twice a year—he can stop a lot of trouble before it gets real headway.

Don't expect miracles from Crest—do expect fewer cavities. Remember, Crest is not a cure-all. So team Crest with the right dental program and start reducing your family's cavities now.

P.S. If your dealer is not supplied quite yet, please be patient. The benefits of this product are so important we hope you'll give us a chance to get Crest to him.

HOSPITAL FOR ADDICTS AVAILABLE IN YEAR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Construction of a special institution for drug addicts that will be a cross between a hospital and a jail will start in the Vancouver area within a year.

Allen J. MacLeod, federal prison commissioner, said in an interview Wednesday the institution will offer treatment and training for up to 100 female and 300 male addicts.

The federal government announced last year that the institution will be built but gave no details.

Mr. MacLeod said at present about 60 per cent of the female prisoners in Kingston, Ont. penitentiary and one-third of the male prisoners at B.C. penitentiary are addicts.

AUTHOR Farley Mowat said Wednesday he has sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker urging the Canadian government demand the U.S. halt what he called "intervention in Cuban affairs."

Ex-Nazi Attempts Suicide By Jump

LUDWIGSBURG, West Germany (Reuters)—A former SS officer accused of murdering 2,000 Polish Jews jumped from a third-storey landing here in an apparent suicide attempt, prison authorities said today.

The man, Heinrich Hamann, was taken to the prison hospital with serious injuries.

WILLISTON ANSWERED

Columbia Treaty Aids Both Sides

SEATTLE—Canada and the U.S. will profit equally under the terms of the Columbia Treaty, according to Maj. Gen. Alfred D. Starbird, North Pacific Division, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Gen. Starbird's remarks on the mutual benefits of the treaty, made here during Construction Industry Day ceremonies, appeared to be in direct reply to protests made a few days ago by B.C.'s Minister of Lands and Forests R. G. Williston that there had been "serious misrepresentation" of the treaty in the United States.

Speaking to the Northwest Public Power Association at Wenatchee, Washington, April 17, Mr. Williston told his American audience that the tabulated information provided by the United States to the press at the time of the treaty announcement tended to show that there was not a 50-50 split of benefits but that a far greater return had been secured by the United States. He also said that American data released on the Libby project tended to show that benefits accrue only in the United States.

Outlining specifically the benefits which will be received by Canada, Gen. Starbird said: "This is not a one-way treaty. There was long and careful negotiation to set a formula whereby both countries would profit as nearly as possible equally from the investment each made."

"Canada is to receive one-half of the dependable capacity and one-half the average annual energy which will result from their upstream storage. A fixed sum will be paid to Canada for the provision and use of flood control storage. Canada will also receive flood control benefits from the Libby reservoir, and regulation of the Upper Kootenay to permit Canada to generate additional power at their Kootenay River development."

"I would like to repeat that the treaty is to be for the benefit of both nations, and that the benefits are believed to be fairly and justly distributed."

BEST KNOWN unemployed man in Canada, Glen Exelby, is still looking for a job. Central figure in a political controversy following his television appearance last month, Exelby says he's still looking for work and would like "to be left alone."

Queen's Pay Raised

THE HAGUE (CP) — The Netherlands government has proposed a raise in Queen Juliana's annual allowance to 2,500,000 guilders ($700,000) from the present 1,500,000 guilders ($410,000) in view of the rising cost of living.

NEW FEDERAL BILL 'HARASSES' UNIONS

A federal bill designed to compel unions to reveal their assets was scored as "further harassment of trade unions" by secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone at a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday night.

The federal Bill C-70 "places unions, which are working for the good and welfare of their members, on the same footing as organizations out to make profits," he said. "How they can equate this I don't know."

If enacted, the government plan would require all unions to file a complete list of assets, names, addresses and nationalities of officers and administrative expenses.

The information would be available to anyone for a $1 search fee.

Festival Judge Says Music Due Honored Place

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The Chant Report got a poke in the ribs from vocal adjudicator Timothy Turner at Wednesday night's session of the Victoria Music Festival.

A capacity audience at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall heard Mr. Turner remark that he had heard quite a lot about a certain "report on your educational system."

"I haven't had an opportunity to read it but I would like to say this," the adjudicator continued: "Music should have an honored place in the school curriculum... we must find time to teach children how to live in love and charity with their neighbors."

IT'S MATHS MAN

He pointed out that music was a better catalyst for human relations than mathematics—and I am a maths man myself.

"I have never had a pupil come to me and say 'that was a beautiful maths problem you gave us today, Mr. Turner,' but many have said 'that was a beautiful Brahms number you played for us.'"

Mr. Turner's comments were inspired by a splendid class of eight young choirs from churches and private studios in the area.

ENVY OF ADULTS

"What a joy! What a treat these tiny ones gave us," exclaimed the adjudicator of the first contestants, Wee Folks Glee Club, conducted by Miss Gladys Pearcey.

"It was incredibly good with a controlled ending that might well have been the envy of adult choirs," Mr. Turner said of this group whose ages range from two to seven years. When he came down to the mundane business of marks, Vera Barclay's Studio Choir was out in front with a total of 179 for a beautiful and intelligent performance.

Wee Folks came second with 174 marks and in third place was St. Aidan's Junior Choir which received 169.

FINALISTS HEARD

Three finalist classes of vocalists comprised the balance of the program. Winner of the Class 37A folk song was Rino Elverhoy. Female oratorio solo was won by Margaret Thomson with Wendy Cox in second place.

The Lieder team of Barbara Oldnall and Patricia Evans won this class with Norman Tyrell and Mrs. W. B. Milburn a close second.

Barbara Oldnall and Patricia Evans also won the Norma Douglas scholarship and Miss Oldnall received one of the two Musical Art Society bursaries as well.

8 PASTORS EXECUTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight Methodist pastors have been reported killed in Angola, the Methodist board of missions said today.

The mission said the pastors, all Africans, "were killed by either Portuguese civilians or military forces after hurried trials."

At least half the denomination's 150 African pastors in Angola "are reported either in prison, have fled with their wives, or have been killed," the board said.

LISBON (Reuters)—Two ships laden with troops and weapons today were reported bound for the revolt-hit Portuguese West Africa territory of Angola.

FINALISTS TO BE HEARD THIS EVENING

Tonight at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, one of the most interesting in a series of fine evening programs in the Music Festival, will be heard.

It will feature finals of this afternoon's female voice operatic solo class, the male operatic solo class, piano performer's concert group, with Carole James the sole entrant, and the family ensemble class in which any combination of instruments and/or voices, all performers to be related, will compete.

In this class, seven groups will appear including the well known Perrins, Goward and Gilstein families and others making their debut on this occasion.

Friday night the first festival week winds up with an honor program at Central Junior High School, featuring special performances by winners selected by adjudicators and the championship city medalion and rose bowl contests.

Bourguiba Coming

TUNIS (UPI)—President Habib Bourguiba will fly to Ottawa May 1 on the opening leg of his tour of Canada and the United States, it was announced today.

One Loss, One Gain For Labor Council

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night inducted a new affiliate and lost an old one.

Joining up was Local 2415 of the Piledrivers Union. But a shipwrights local withdrew its affiliation. Council delegates established a special committee to try winning back the shipwrights and two other locals that quit recently.

Canadian Labor Congress representative W. G. Gauld lashed out at the Newfoundland government's failure to act on a royal commission report which said there had been "no improvement" in living conditions for Newfoundland loggers since their bitter strike two years ago.

SQUALID CONDITIONS

Mr. Gauld said the royal commission noted that loggers were not even provided with washing facilities in "squalid, rickety cabins" operated by the logging industry in the woods.

Workmen's Compensation Board hearings will be held in Victoria during the week starting May 28, delegates were advised. Claimants for WCB benefits must send claims to the board before May 12.

PUPS IS PUPS — EVEN AT $2,000 THE BASKETFULL

Don't try to count 'em, because you can't — but there are eight healthy, happy, squirming puppies in the basket, with a potential value of as much as $2,000. They are genuine Weimaraners, born five weeks ago to Ch. Barosa Von Har, a little sister to the Weimaraner owned by Gen. Eisenhower. Pups, five males and three females, are proud possession of Mrs. John Aitken, 4081 Cedar Hill, who is planning a unique career for "Princess" whom she is holding in photo. When Princess is three months old, she will be shipped to England, to start the first Weimaraner dynasty in the British Isles, where only 14 of the breed are now registered.

RECOGNIZE RED CHINA

Majority Agree With Archbishop

Men and women in many walks of life today supported the opinion of Archbishop Harold Sexton that Red China should be admitted to the United Nations without delay.

"We cannot safely ignore these teeming millions," the archbishop told the 59th session of the Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia.

Of 20 people contacted by The Times this morning, 12 agreed with the archbishop. Four disagreed with him. The other four declined to give an opinion.

"Of course he is right," said Mrs. Barbara Sulisbury, 1504 Haultain. "It is only common sense. How can you have a United Nations organization if it does not represent all the nations?"

LET'S FACE IT
"There are nearly 700,000,000 people in China and we may as well face up to it," commented P. E. Hughes, 721 Lansdowne. "China is a great power whether we like it or not."

Terence Jones, 20-year-old student of 1163 Colville Road, said the United Nations should give "earnest consideration" to admitting Red China.

Miss Erika Tosch, a Swiss student living at 2640 Cook Street, took the opposite view. "Communism is incompatible with the principle of the United Nations," she declared. "I do not think China should be admitted."

Major F. V. Longstaff, 50 King George Terrace, said he did not agree with Archbishop Sexton and did not think he should "meddle" in international affairs.

"He should remember that China still holds many Christians prisoner, both Protestant and Catholic."

Mrs. Nan Greenwood, 2735 Scott Street, said: "I don't see how the United Nations can achieve its purpose without China. You cannot shut out a nation of that size."

"I am in full agreement with the archbishop," said Mrs. H. W. Maunsell, teacher of 1771 Newton. "The Communist government of China and should be represented at UN."

"There is no valid reason why China should be excluded," said Michael Sampson, 3155 Richmond. "You cannot ignore a nation of that size." Rev. Alexander Calder of Oak Bay United Church said the Communist government should be recognized as the official government of the people.

"Chiang Kai-shek (head of the nationalist government recognized by the United States) is playing the same sort of role as Bonnie Prince Charlie in Scotland."

PRETENSE USELESS
John Edmonds, visiting here from Vancouver, said: "Communism is a fait accompli in China and we might as well get used to the idea. What is the use of pretending otherwise?"

"Red China should obviously be admitted," said Colin Cameron, former M.P. for Nanaimo. "I think the United States is reconsidering its attitude and will recognize the Communist government if it can do so without loss of face."

Mrs. E. Pieters, 1288 Hollway, did not agree with the archbishop. "I don't think we should admit Communists to the United Nations," she said.

Mrs. Mabel Watson, 1031 Pandora, said Red China should be admitted if the Communist government agreed to conform to the principles of the United Nations.

A. K. Hurst, 1450 Douglas, declared: "There is no hope for world peace if we do not admit China. The time for quibbling over China's politics has gone by."

FOLLOW U.K. LEAD
Mrs. J. E. Forsyth, visiting here from her home in Toronto, said the United States should follow the example of Britain and adopt a "more reasonable attitude" to Red China.

John H. Emerson, 1110 Fort Street, said Red China should be admitted "at the earliest opportunity."

"There can be no proper negotiations for world peace while China is left out in the cold," he said.

Archbishop Sexton said many persons have supported his proposal, and he repeated it in a CBC telecast today.

Sad Weather To Continue Over Friday

Chilly, bleak, unsettled weather of the past two days will continue overnight and into Friday, weatherman William Mackie said today.

A weather system approaching from Alaska Panhandle will give showers tonight and Friday, and southeast winds of from 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Temperatures will range between a minimum of 40 degrees tonight and a maximum of 50 degrees Friday.

There is a chance, however, of improving weather behind the storm, Mr. Mackie said. If it goes through Victoria on schedule Friday morning, then there will be sunshine Friday afternoon, he said, and the possibility of sunshine again Saturday.

The air will remain cool, and winds will be strong from the northwest.

Temperatures this week have been anything but spring-like.

Minimum Tuesday morning at Gonzales Observatory was 41 degrees, and at the Tillamook reporting station 34 degrees. Minimums Wednesday morning were 36 and 35 degrees, respectively, while this morning they were a fairly mild 40 degrees at Gonzales, and a decidedly frigid 31 at Tillamook.

Census-Takers Going to School

Preparations Made For June Headcount

By FRANK RUTTER

A federal official will spend next week in Victoria teaching the art of census-taking to local commissioners who will participate in a Canada-wide "quiz" during the month of June.

Starting June 1 enumerators will fan out across the nation to ask questions about every person in Canada.

Everyone is required by law to answer each question. Penalty for refusing, under the Statistics Act, is $100 fine or three months jail per question.

The census, first since 1951, will cover three fields: population and housing, agriculture and merchandising.

DETAILS NEEDED

Questions everyone must answer include details on age and sex, and racial origin, religion and gross income.

Details on financial status, including all sources of income and allowances, will be taken at every fifth household. They are to be sealed by the person queried and will not be opened until delivered to Bureau of Statistics offices.

Census-takers are sworn to an oath of secrecy.

Norman McLeod, of the Vancouver bureau office, will hold "classes" for a week here, starting Monday, for the six commissioners appointed for Victoria federal riding, five from Esquimalt-Saanich and one from the Cowichan area of the Nanaimo constituency.

Each area also will employ some 25 enumerators for the big quiz.

HEAD COUNT FIRST

Names of the commissioners and enumerators have not been announced.

Main goal of the census is a head count, and the most likely effect of this will be adjustments in the distribution of seats in Canada's Parliament.

The estimated population at the end of 1960 was 18,040,000. Name, sex, age, religion, origin, educational standard will be asked of everyone. People over 15 will be asked details about their jobs.

The housing questions include the type of dwelling, whether the owner has a car, TV or freezer, how much the house is worth and if there is a mortgage.

There are 186 questions on agriculture — details of crops, production, machinery, acreage — which will be mailed in advance to farmers.

The merchandising survey includes questions on type and size of business. A second part of the survey will be conducted in 1962 when details of sales and trading margins will be sought from 1961 records.

A federal information bulletin says no question in the 1961 census is "to satisfy simple curiosity."

"Facts obtained about an individual may not be used for taxation, military or any other purpose except the calculation of statistics."

"Answers given by the individual are absolutely confidential. They are not available to any other department or agency other than the Dominion Bureau of Statistics."

Names, it says, are only sought to ensure complete enumeration.

More 'Work' For Sweepers

"Littlest" ships in the RCN Pacific Command, the four minesweepers of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron are challenging for the title of "busiest."

They returned Wednesday night from their second extensive exercise in coastal waters this year, and immediately began to prepare for a cruise to California.

HMC Ships Fortune, Cowichan and Miramichi will leave May 3 for joint exercises with units of the United States Navy, in the Long Beach area.

En route, the ships will visit San Francisco May 5 to 7, and pay a return visit June 2 to 4 on the way home.

From June 7 to 12, the ships will be at Portland, Ore., while the 160 officers and men of the squadron take part in several major activities in connection with the Portland rose festival.

They will return to Esquimalt at 11.30 a.m., June 13.

One-Man Conciliation Boards Still Under Challenge by City

City finance committee today recommended that council carry its fight against one-man conciliation boards to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

Committee received and filed a reply from Labor Minister Leslie Peterson which shrugged off city protests against the one-man procedure by which City Hall staff hours were cut from 5 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. during the May 1 to Sept. 21 period.

"There nothing we can do about it this time but I feel very strongly that it is absolutely wrong to have one man decide important matters like the wages and hours for city employees," said Ald. M. H. Mooney.

Committee ordered drafting of a resolution for the UBCM convention which would require all conciliation decisions to be made by a regularly appointed three-man board.

Expenditure of about $1,200 to equip four fire trucks with automatic sirens was recommended to the budget committee.

Fire warden chairman Ald. A. I. Curtis said the automatic sirens would go on as soon as the truck engines were started and would be more penetrating and consistently audible than manually-operated sirens.

Bennett Set For Alaska Conference

Premier W. A. C. Bennett will lead an expedition to Alaska in June for an international conference on transportation.

The conference is set for June 20-21 at Juneau, a spokesman for the premier's office said today.

Taking part will be B.C., Alaska and Yukon officials. Probable members of the B.C. team, besides the premier, are Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, and two or three departmental officials.

Major topic will be the international "Marine Highway" scheme planned to link Alaska with California, possibly with Vancouver Island as a stepping stone on the route.

FERRIES APPROVED
Alaskans last Nov. 8, approved a $23,000,000 bond issue for construction of ferries to run from Haines, Alaska, to Prince Rupert.

Governor William Egan now is seeking negotiations on facilities at Prince Rupert for docking.

This will likely be a federal matter, and Ottawa is expected to send an observer to the Juneau conference.

Roads and railways from the U.S. border to Alaska also will be big issues on the conference agenda.

"Believe it or not, it is very difficult to prove in court whether or not a siren was on. This would solve that," he said.

Manual sirens rise and fall in pitch and the wall can fall so low that for "up to 20 or 30 seconds" there is no audible sound, he said.

A $4,500 capital grant spread over three years was recommended to budget committee for the St. John's Ambulance training building here. The sum would equal the city's normal share of the $10,000 request had it been approved by the intermunicipal committee instead of turned down.

But a Salvation Army request for $45,000 towards its Matson Sunset Lodge was tabled pending a report from the health and welfare committee.

Thunderbirds Drum Corps of 40 girls was given permission to practise one night weekly in the old Victoria West fire hall.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Is it characteristic for a Great Dane (dog) to pace (i.e., the two legs on one side moving forward together)?

A. It is not characteristic, also not unusual. But it is very definitely undesirable. The official American Kennel Club Show manual states specifically: "When moving rapidly, the Great Dane should not pace, for the reason it causes excessive side-to-side rolling of the body, and this reduces endurance."

Q. Could you please tell me the date of the Calgary Stampede for 1961?

A. July 10 to 15.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along in The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should be sent with full name and full address. The Times does not undertake to solve correspondence or legal problems. No will be returned to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

HERE AND THERE . . . With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Behind the high altar of Christ Church Cathedral you are reminded that the theatre had its origins in the church. It was the old Biblical pageants that launched dramatic art as we know it — and in the vestry of the cathedral you find bishops and clergy robing as if for a stage classic, and chatting lightheartedly about it.

"Is my cassock on right, old man?" one will say to another. And even Archbishop Harold Sexton has been heard to inquire: "Am I straight at the back?"

On entering the cathedral, of course, bishops and clergy shed all informality and take on a mood of deep devotion. But they let their hair down a little when entertained by Archbishop Sexton in the Union Club.

"There is less regard for high office in B.C. than other parts of Canada," said Right Rev. W. R. Coleman, Bishop of Kootenay, who was formerly principal of Huron College, Ontario.

"Most people in this province regard you first and foremost as a person, regardless of your office."

Yet he was greeted in a small interior parish with the expression: "Welcome, my Lord!"

Archbishop Sexton capped this by saying that he was once received with the salutation: "My God, how are you?"

Bishop Coleman says British Columbians are more conscious of speed limits than Canadians in other provinces. "I have seen far less driving above the speed limits in B.C. than in Ontario," said the slim, ascetic-looking prelate. "This may indicate a greater respect for law and order."

You would hardly expect an 11-year-old boy to tackle such a subject as the life cycle of a salmon.

Freeman King, president of Victoria Natural History Society, tells me this is one of the best efforts he has received so far in the society's junior essay contest.

There are two sections — one for boys and girls under 13, the other for those over 13. Closing date for entries is April 30.

Judges are Brian Tobin and Art Stott, associate editors of The Times.

Mrs. J. B. Austen of Esquimalt tells of receiving a letter from a woman friend in Texas.

She confided she was tired out because her 17-year-old daughter had just got married and she had just driven the newlyweds to San Antonio for their honeymoon.

"They were just too young to drive," the mother said.

FORMER VICTORIA officer, Rear Admiral Rupert A. Wright, is here on an official visit as naval comptroller at Ottawa headquarters. Admiral Wright called on the lieutenant-governor, premier and mayor Wednesday, today began a series of discussions with senior officers at HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard.

$156,000 Cost Of Local Work On Telephones

Work being done by the B.C. Telephone Co. in Victoria, Sidney and Ganges will cost $156,000, district manager E. L. Mallett said today.

Panels of French hand-clipped lace floated from the back of the gown. A large satin flower centred the head-piece that held a silk illusion veil. Johanna Hill roses and lily of the valley were in the cascade bouquet. The only jewelry was a diamond and pearl drop necklace, gift of the groom.

Apple green silk shantung sheath gowns were worn by the four attendants. These were the maid of honor, Miss Geraldine Kennedy; the bridesmaid, Mrs. L. CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Glamor has come to the 110-year-old Kent County council in the person of its first woman member, Mrs. Edgar Bechard, a French-Canadian with a fantastic collection of hats.

Mrs. Bechard, deputy reeve of Wallaceburg, has created almost as much of a stir with her 28 original headpieces as with her constant efforts on behalf of labor, the underprivileged and the youth of her community.

One of her creations bobbed vigorously on her well-groomed, blonde head as she attended the council's inaugural meeting.

"The labor-class elected me," she said. "God gives each of us a gift. It seems mine is a peculiar ability to obtain whatever I go after for my needy fellow men. I shall continue to use it."

DEAR ABBY

Strictly Business!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 25. I have three children. I am going with a man of 21 who wants to marry me. He is not very mature-looking and could pass for a high school boy. I prefer a more mature man, but I have gone with many, and the minute I start talking marriage they drop me. So I have decided to marry this young man.

After I marry him I will persuade him to adopt my children so, in case the marriage doesn't work out, he will have to support all of us. The young man's mother is dead and his father objects to his marrying me. The father has money and so does his son. I know he is too young for me, but I am thinking of my children. Please advise me.

WANTS TO MARRY
DEAR ABBY: This is a cold business proposition whereby you are using marriage to trap a young man into supporting you and your children. He will not be young and immature all his life. And when he realizes that he has been used for a meal ticket, he will resent you and the children. I know that life for a young widow with 3 little ones is not easy, but you will be happier if you pick on someone your own age.

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you, but when you say a "NO-SMOKING" sign does not belong in a living room, I must disagree. A smoker and a skunk have but one thing in common. They both produce an offensive odor. But the skunk is a country gentleman because he will behave himself unless disturbed. The smoker will, without provocation, pollute the air, considering no one but himself.

P. E. Z.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a surprise party was given at my home. During the evening one of the guests (a woman, married and 33) suggested playing "spin the bottle." This entails a lot of kissing. My daughter, who is married and 29, was horrified, and so was I. However, in order not to cause a scene, we let the game proceed.

Don't you think it is childish for married couples between the ages of 28 and 45 to be playing such games? I want your comments because the person who proposed the game thought it was a good way to break the ice.

OTTAWA (CP) — Apparent United States abandonment of its scheme to make NATO a nuclear power will not affect any Canada-U.S. plan for provision of American nuclear warheads to Canadian troops in Europe, informed sources say.

It was planned from the start—1958—such provision would be made under a bilateral arrangement in the same way that there would be joint Canada-U.S. control over nuclear warheads for Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles based in Canada.

President Kennedy's recent statements on the subject indicate that he believes the problem of NATO control over the use of nuclear weapons placed under its administration—15 fingers on the trigger

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Wednesday: Evered John Thomas, 2502 Scott, $45; James S. Nelson, 275 Sooke, $50 and licence suspension, for careless driving. Maria Underwood, 1341 Craigflower, $25 for driving without a licence, and $10 for driving through a red light.

—would be too difficult to surmount.

It now is his apparent view that it would be better—and safer—for American nuclear warheads in Europe to remain under exclusive U.S. custody.

URGENT CONTROL

At the same time, President Kennedy has emphasized civilian control over all American military policy. This obviously is intended to reassure European members of NATO which had been looking for some kind of control over the use of American nuclear weapons.

Later this year, the Canadian infantry brigade group in West Germany will get the Honest John artillery rocket, capable of carrying a nuclear warhead.

By next year, the RCAF air division in Europe will be taking delivery of the CF-104 low-level jet bomber, also capable of being fitted with nuclear warheads.

Joint control over these warheads—and those for the Bomarc—would mean that it would be up to U.S. whether to release them for use. Then it would be up to Canada to decide whether to use them. Earlier this month, informants indicated no Canada-U.S. agreement was likely to be reached at least until the outcome of East-West disarmament negotiations scheduled for late July or August became apparent.

GUANTANAMO SERENE BUT FIREPOWER READY

REAR-ADM. O'DONNELL ... fighters in 5 minutes

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—This big U.S. naval base on the eastern tip of Cuba is on a watchful, round-the-clock alert but for the most part the fighting going on beyond the fence might as well be on another continent.

All is quiet in the immediate vicinity. The usual peace of the base is marred only by a slight increase in tension.

Rear-Admiral E. J. O'Donnell, base commander, said in an interview that a constant radar watch is being maintained and that fighters on the runways are ready to scramble skyward in less than five minutes.

O'Donnell said he also has on call 10 or 11 destroyers that can pump out five-inch shells at the rate of one a second from twin mounts.

COST 1,500,000 VOTES

Kennedy's Religion Main Election Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cent were said to be non-Catholic. Kennedy polled 17 per cent of the former Republican voters, while former vice-president Richard Nixon polled 35 per cent of the former Democratic voters.

At first glance, the experts said, this would seem to indicate Kennedy gained more than he lost as the result of being a Catholic. But they contended that nearly half of Kennedy's gains among Catholics who had voted for former president Eisenhower resulted from normal Democrats returning to the party fold.

The four specialists—Angus Campbell, Philip E. Converse, Warren E. Miller and Donald E. Stokes—recently published a book entitled The American Voter dealing with their findings through the 1958 election.

Four men from the University's survey research centre, reporting on an extensive survey of presidential voting in recent years, told a press conference that among those who voted for president in both 1956 and 1960, one out of four switched from one party to the other. They said this was due largely to religious factors.

Among those switching from the Republican party to the Democratic party, close to 60 per cent were estimated to be Roman Catholics. Among those who switched to Republican from Democratic, 95 per

Bastedo's Court Request Rejected by Douglas

REGINA (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor Frank L. Bastedo said Wednesday he had asked Premier Douglas for an undertaking that Bill 56 would be submitted to the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal before it was proclaimed law.

In an unprecedented action by a Saskatchewan lieutenant-governor, Mr. Bastedo reserved royal assent on the bill when the legislature prorogued on April 8.

The bill would have given the Saskatchewan cabinet power to order renegotiation of some or all of more than 2,000 mineral lease contracts now before the mineral contracts renegotiation board.

His action put the bill before the Governor-General-in-Council. The federal cabinet must make a decision on the controversial bill within a year.

SOUGHT UNDERTAKING

In a statement, Mr. Bastedo said:

"... The morning the legislature prorogued ... I had a conversation with Mr. Douglas. I had earlier that morning informed the Hon. Mr. Blakeney (Education Minister Blakeney who was acting attorney-general) that I intended to reserve the bill but would assent to it if the premier would undertake not to have the bill proclaimed until its validity was referred to the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal and a final decision obtained.

"Mr. Blakeney said he would have to refer the matter to the premier.

"Shortly before prorogation, the premier and Mr. Blakeney met me and the premier declined to give the undertaking I had asked for."

GOVERNMENT SATISFIED

Mr. Bastedo also said he had talked to the premier the day before prorogation and had suggested that the bill be put over to the next session for further consideration. He said the premier declined to do this.

Mr. Bastedo made the statement in answer to questions about a report in an eastern newspaper that Mr. Douglas had declined the day before prorogation to request the appeal court to rule on the constitutionality of the bill before proclaiming it law.

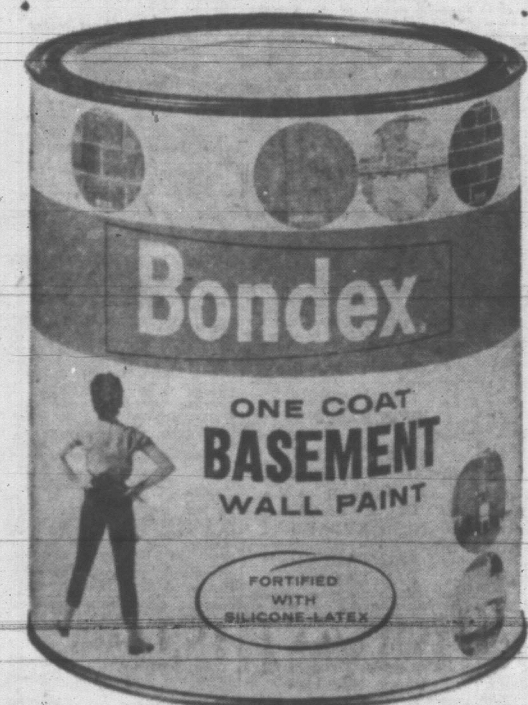

Premier Douglas said Bill 56 was not referred to the courts because the government has no doubt as to its validity.

More important, he said, the Mineral Lease Contracts Act expires Dec. 31, 1961, and to refer the bill to court would leave no time to give farmers redress.

Admiral Going To Submarine Commissioning

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer, Pacific Coast, will attend meetings in Ottawa and Halifax en route to the commissioning of the Pacific Command's new submarine at New London, Conn., May 11.

At Ottawa he will confer with Vice-Admiral Herbert S. Rayner, Chief of Naval Staff, and other members of the naval board. At Halifax, he will meet with Rear-Admiral Kenneth Dyer, flag officer, Atlantic.

The submarine, to be christened HMCS Grilse, will be accepted on loan from the USN by associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny.

Mrs. Sevigny will christen the submarine.

The Grilse will leave New London, manned by Canadian officers and men who have completed special training courses, after working-up exercises. She will proceed to Esquimalt via the Panama Canal, with a brief stop at San Diego, and is due here about mid-July.

Impudence May Rule Probation Out—Magistrate

"Impudence" cost a young burglar possible probation in city police court Wednesday.

Magistrate William Osler rejected the idea of suspending sentence for Barry Allen Pearson, 19, no fixed address, who pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft at Central Meat Market, 2649 Douglas, twice in two days.

"If you hadn't had the impudence to go a second time to the same place and break in again, you might have been considered for probation," Mr. Osler said, giving the youth six months, definite and three months indeterminate at young offender's unit.

Donald Roy Ferguson, 20, of Brentwood, Pearson's accomplice who was charged jointly, was sentenced to 14 months definite and three indeterminate because of a previous record for theft and "generally irresponsible conduct."

Canada Joins Bid to Gain Economic Unity

PARIS (Reuters) — Representatives of the United States, Canada and 18 European countries agreed Wednesday on closer co-operation in the economic-fiscal sphere to facilitate world prosperity.

The decision was announced at the end of a two-day session of the economic policy committee of the Organization of European Economic Co-operation.

The OEEC is to be replaced before the end of the year by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. The United States and Canada will be full members of the OECD. They are observers in the OEEC.

Toronto Drive Opens Against Fluoridation

TORONTO (UPI) — Metropolitan Toronto Council approved a controversial fluoridation bylaw Tuesday by an 18-5 margin.

Despite the overwhelming majority most members of the council felt a plebiscite on the issue was inevitable.

Petitions against fluoridation of the water supply, launched by the Ontario Citizens' Committee, were being circulated in the suburbs of Leaside, Swansea and New Toronto. The suburbs of Long Branch and Mimico also will be asked to sign petitions.

Trek Further North For Eskimos Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—An Eskimo migration northward — for reasons of economics and sovereignty — may spring from an aerial inventory this summer of birds and beasts in the Canadian Arctic islands.
Any such resettlement would be limited and depend on just how plentiful game proves.
Primary object is to find fresh areas capable of supporting Eskimos who desire to move — and be available to lend a hand with gas and oil exploration and drilling in the far north.
Northern Affairs Minister Dinsdale said Wednesday that the wildlife service will conduct the survey from mid-June to the end of August in the Queen Elizabeth Islands.
The group includes 13 larger islands — the northern half of the archipelago — in an area where the oil search is progressing.

Two aircraft equipped with oversized tires, capable of landing on beaches or other open spots, will operate out of Resolute Bay, 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg.
One target will be numbers of Parry Island caribou, a smaller, lighter-colored species than the migrant southern type.
Others will be bear, seal, Arctic fox and birds nesting in the short summer. Smaller animals such as lemmings and Arctic hare will be left out, but attention will be paid to the muskox herds, although they are on the restricted game list.
The Arctic islands are estimated to hold about 3,500 muskox, most on Ellesmere Island.

Jury Death Brings Order From Bonner

Attorney General Robert Bonner has issued new orders to his sheriffs after death of a juror who tried to be excused from serving on a panel.
Mr. Bonner said Wednesday he had informed all sheriffs that any request for jury exemption on health grounds are to be immediately referred to a judge before jurors are selected.
The orders follow death of Hugh Bloden last year.
He was refused permission to skip jury duty despite his plea that he had silicosis.
He served three days on a New Westminster jury before finally winning exemption.
This was in April. He died June 25.
Mr. Bonner was amplifying on a letter he has sent to Vancouver Labor Council promising there is no likelihood of a repetition of the Bloden case.

Lost Chihuahua Home in Hurry, Safe But Hungry

Three-year-old chihuahua Skippy came bounding up his owner's driveway early Wednesday afternoon a day after being reported stolen in a burglary.
Mrs. H. R. Brereton, 734 Latoria, said her dog was in good condition but hungry.
She said she looked out a window and saw a "streak coming up the driveway... I never saw him run so fast."
At the same time, a car pulled away on Latoria Road, but Mrs. Brereton could not be sure the dog had been let out of it.

SHERIFF'S SALE
Under and by virtue of a Writ of Fieri Facias issued out of the Supreme Court of British Columbia and to me directed against the goods and chattels of William Robert Hayward, I have seized and will sell by Public Auction at the Sheriff's Office, Court House, Victoria, B.C., on Friday, the 21st day of April, 1961, at the hour of 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon:

One 1958 Oldsmobile 88 4-Door Sedan (power steering, power brakes.)

Terms of Sale: Cash, plus 5% Sales Tax.
For further particulars apply to the undersigned.

E. WILKINSON,
Sheriff, County of Victoria,

Court House, Victoria, B.C.,
April 19th, 1961.

Eskimos lived much farther north at one time, remnants of bone-and-stone houses and tent rings show. Scientists believe they retreated when the weather grew colder.
Eskimo families were moved northward in the early 1950s — from northern Quebec and Baffin Island — to Resolute and Crise Fiord on southern Ellesmere Island.
Grise has 58 residents and is the most northerly Eskimo settlement in the world. However, it is considered probable that other spots on Ellesmere have enough game to support more groups which could help pin down Canadian sovereignty over a broad area now populated only by scientific expeditions and a handful of weather stations.

Mother Sees Man Who Killed Baby

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Hungarian refugee said here Wednesday she has recognized a Communist police official whom she says murdered one of her children in Hungary 12 years ago.

The woman, called by city police to interpret conversation during an investigation, said that the man involved was her former captor.

She pleaded for anonymity, saying the lives of her husband and five remaining children would be endangered if she was identified.

The woman said she was fleeing through Hungary toward the Italian border and freedom with her young son and baby girl when they were captured by the NKVD (Communist police).
She said the baby was starved until it weighed only six pounds and one day the man she says recognized Wednesday smashed the girl's head against a wall. She said she has the death certificate which shows the cause of death.

The man was a Yugoslavian Communist, she said.

When asked who would be inclined to harm her family in Vancouver, the woman said simply: "Reds."

She said she was warned on a telephone call to "lay off the case if you love your children." The voice had no accent and sounded like a Canadian, she said.
"I'm not afraid for myself," she said. "I've lived with fear for so long that I have a numbness for fear. But I could endanger five children's lives. I lost one and it wasn't a pretty sight."

BUT THE BIG ONE GOT AWAY

Divers Grapple Octopus

'It's Good Business To Pay High Wages'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner told a service club luncheon here it is good business to pay good wages.

Mr. Bonner said British Columbia had the highest wage rates in the country and "probably the highest rate of productivity a man".

He recommended as "high a wage as you can afford at home," while still keeping competitive in foreign markets. He emphasized the need for proper balance, but stressed British Columbia's economy was not built on low wage rates.

Mr. Bonner said people earning good wages make good purchasers.

While swimming off Saxe Point Park on Sunday, members of the Bohemians skin-divers club found an underwater cave with a king-size octopus in residence.

They had no success in bringing it to the surface so they returned in force Wednesday evening. The creature, they estimated, measured 12 to 14 feet, tip-to-tip.
The divers met with some early success on their second attempt when they managed to dislodge a smaller type of octopus. Even so, this one measured about four feet and proved to be quite a handful.
Then they went after big daddy but he turned out to be too elusive and succeeded in making good his escape.

The Bohemians' efforts were not wasted, however, as it was all good practice for their trip to Tacoma this weekend when they will take part in an "Octopus Grapple."

Divers from all over the U.S. and Canada are expected to be there for the event.

Between 400,000 and 500,000 persons hold managerial posts in industry and commerce in the United Kingdom.

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday:
Gary Hiscock, Colwood, $15 and $3 costs and re-examination of driver's licence, for speeding over 50.
John Charles Adams, Hilliers, and Walter Alvin Kesler, 340 Colwood, $25 and $3 costs each for failing to yield right of way when making a left turn.
Christian Sulz, 422 Fraser, $25 and $3 costs for careless driving.

Copley Bros., trucking, 4260 Carey, $15 and $3 costs for operating a truck with defective lights.
Gang Singh Bains, 825 Rodrick, $25 and $3 costs for following another vehicle too closely.
Ronald George Douglas, P.I. Renfrew, $15 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.
Anni Ponecker, Elsa, Y.T., $35 and $3 costs for passing another vehicle on a double solid centre line.

Airlines Presidents To Meet Head-On

OTTAWA (CP)—A showdown is shaping up on transcontinental air routes for Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines, informants said Wednesday.

CPA president Grant McConachie and TCA president Gordon McGregor are expected to come face to face soon—either Friday or early next week—before a special cabinet committee studying a new policy for air transport in Canada.

The big issue: How far will the government go in opening up TCA's transcontinental routes in Canada to competition from the privately-owned CPA?

Two years ago, Canadian Pacific was given a one-day return flight, linking Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

Indications are the cabinet will spell out a new policy soon, possibly wrapping both regional and transcontinental issues into a major declaration.

Island Players Score in Comedy

By HAL JONES

Cowichan Lake Drama Club brought its winner of a play to Oak Bay Junior High School on Wednesday and delighted a capacity audience.

One can speculate on what would happen if Hollywood took "The Three Cuckolds," by Leon Katz, and adapted it for the screen.

No doubt it would be billed as "sophisticated comedy," make news copy in several countries for running into trouble with the censor, and would probably be "adult entertainment only."

All credit then to the Cowichan Lake club for so successfully capturing the spirit of 16th century European comedy.

EXPRESSIVE TITLE

The plot is amply described by the play's title itself. And for convenience the couples involved are next-door neighbors.

Three couples, three cuckolds would make events rather straightforward, so to keep things moving along comes Arlecchino, a bachelor clown who doesn't mind whose wife he makes off with. A dashing fellow, but despite all his dashing he gets precisely nowhere.

Adrian Pecknold turned in a masterful piece of acting as the hard-working bachelor. To him went the task of keeping the steady flow of situations moving and intertwined.

AUDIENCE WITH HIM

It was almost effortless for him to capture the sympathy of the audience, for although Arlecchino was masterful at changing partners among the three married couples, he himself was invariably left out in the cold.

In a few places the comedy was a little more obvious. At one stage a red and angry-looking devil appeared from a hole in the ground and a tooth-pulling episode proved as funny when "doctor" Arlecchino extracted a complete upper and lower set of dentures from one of the husbands.

The husbands were Coviello (Keith Tracey), Pantalone (Brent Friday), Zanni (Paul Kleven). The wives were Flaminia (Addie Pecknold), Franceschina (Yvette Friday) and Cintia (Helen MacDougall).

Other parts were played by Alec Walker, Yvonne Verre and Tony Fantillo.

"The Three Cuckolds" was the winning play in the B.C. Regional competition of the Dominion Drama Festival. It will go to Montreal in May to compete in the all-Canada finals.

The play was presented here by the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria and directed by Yvonne Green.

More than 1,300 students from the West Indies, British Guiana and British Honduras are enrolled at Canadian universities, technical schools and training hospitals.

AA (Oscar Class)
A (Don't Miss)
BB (Worthwhile)
B (For Rainy Days)
C (To Put in Time)

(BB PLUS TO A) "SONG WITHOUT END" (Royal) — For those who know something of the life of Hungarian pianist and composer Franz Liszt (1811-1886), Columbia's two-hour-plus "Song Without End" may prove disappointing. In that it deals more with the loves in his life than with his greatness as a pianist and composer.

On the other hand—and this is the cause of the "A" rating—the music to be heard is simply magnificent. What is more, one must marvel at England's Dirk Bogarde for his superb miming at the keys. There are rare moments indeed when one feels as though he is not actually the maestro of whom it was said that his "command of the instrument was supreme and who played like an inspired poet". Usually, in plays of this type, the camera contents itself with peering in at an angle where the hands are either out of sight or at those of an actual musician that are dubbed in for the close shots.

Other than this bit of theatrical magic, however, there will be Bogarde admirers who may wonder if the actor was not out of his depth in this attempt at biography. Or perhaps his posturings and seemingly restricted range of expression stemmed more from Charles Vidor's direction or through some short-comings in Oscar Millard's screenplay. No matter, he reminded one more of Dirk Bogarde than of Franz Liszt.

As the two major loves in his life Capucine (as the Princess Wittgenstein) and Genevieve Page (as the Comtesse d'Agouti) acquitted themselves honorably in their rather unhappy roles as the women who gave up their respect and security for love of a man who must have been as difficult to capture and retain as a hummingbird.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown with some of their 'children.'

FOSTER PARENTS TO 37

Pair Coming for Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown of Morro Bay, Calif., are coming to Victoria next month to visit one of the 37 children they have befriended over the years.

(This is Mrs. R. C. (Doris) Hibberd of 3293 Douglas Street, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Brown for two years while attending school in California in the 20s.

Her mother, Mrs. M. L. Ross of Lyall Street, Esquimalt, was taken ill and some friends arranged for her to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Brown

Top Men Quit Quebec Newspaper
MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse, Quebec province's largest daily newspaper, will be without its president, three directors and its editor-in-chief following a group resignation of five executives announced Wednesday.

Front-page statements published by the newspaper disclosed that Mme. Angeline Du Tremblay has resigned as president along with three members of the board of directors and the editor-in-chief of La Presse, Jean-Louis Gagnon.

The fact the Quebec government had not seen fit to put through private legislation placing the administration of La Presse in the hands of a foundation was given as the reason for the resignations in Mme. Du Tremblay's statement. The statement indicated the legislation was aimed at assuring the newspaper's independence from politics and at settling a family disagreement over policy among members of the board.

while attending school in California. "They were the soul of kindness to me and I am so looking forward to their visit here," Mrs. Hibberd said. "They did similar acts of kindness for 36 other children who are now grown-up and scattered all over the United States and Canada."

"They were a childless couple who were always on the lookout for children in need of help."

Mrs. Hibberd said her mother died at Esquimalt in 1932. Before her illness, she was a well-known hairdresser.

Now in the 70s, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown are making a tour of the children they befriended which has been sponsored by the ABC-TV program "About Faces."

Besides Victoria, the tour will take in McAllen, Texas; Effingham, South Carolina; Akron, Ohio; Portland, Oregon; and Rochester, Minnesota.

Mrs. Hibberd phoned the Browns' in California Friday night to ask when they would arrive here.

"They said they hoped to be in Victoria around the middle of May," she said.

A movie of Mr. and Mrs. Brown and some of their "foster" children will be seen over Channel Four next Monday at 1 p.m.

Parking Report Within a Month

W. C. Mearns, chairman of the city's new advisory parking committee, Wednesday said recommendations will be made within a month as requested by Mayor Percy Scourah.

The committee held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon to review previous parking studies. These will be brought up to date and recommendations made on how many parking facilities should be built and where during the next five years.

Grant to Symphony Doubled by Saanich

Saanich finance committee Wednesday boosted its annual grant to the Victoria Symphony Society from $500 to $1,000.

Reeve George Chatterton said the symphony orchestra should receive the full support of all municipalities.

"It is an asset to the whole area, and benefits everyone," he said.

At the same time, the committee struck out a $620 grant to the B.C. Safety Council.

It agreed to raise a Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau grant from $2,500 to $4,000 providing all other municipalities increased their contributions.

Other grants: Boy Scout Association, $650; Girl Guides, $150; Art Gallery, $1,000; Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee, $350; North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, $100; Saanich Municipal Employees' Association, $500; Victoria Horticultural Society, $20.

GARY COOPER KNOWS HE'S HIT BY CANCER

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Gary Cooper, 59, is gravely ill with cancer and has taken Cobalt treatments. Sources close to the star said today they understood the gangling western movie hero has cancer of the lungs and liver.

"He's in his library most of the time, lying on a couch, looking out over his garden and pool," the sources added.

"He reads the papers in there and watches TV. The rest of the time he's confined to his bed in another room."

U.S. 'ENCOURAGED' INVASION, SAYS NEHRU

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawahar Lal Nehru today accused the United States of encouraging the invasion of Cuba, and said that Cuban rebels were trained somewhere on the U.S. mainland. Nehru, speaking before the upper House of Parliament, said he could not understand how there could be an invasion of Cuba without the support of public or private authorities of the United States to Cuban rebels.

Castro Crushes Invasion But Guerrilla War Goes On

"... thank heavens there's at least one part of the confounded park they've left in it's natural state ..."

'We Won't Abandon Cuba to Communists'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy declared today the United States will not hesitate in meeting its obligations to its own security in the Cuban situation — should that become necessary.

In an address prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Kennedy again said that unilateral American intervention in Cuba would have been contrary to traditions and international obligations, "but let the record show that our restraint is not inexhaustible."

"Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action—if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration—then I want it clearly understood that this government will not hesitate in meeting its primary obligations which are to the security of our own nation."

LAUDS GUERRILLAS

Kennedy said the Cuban guerrilla fighters aligned against the government of Fidel Castro are determined that Cuba must not be abandoned to the Communists.

"And we do not intend to abandon it either," the president said. "The Cuban people have not yet spoken their final piece—and I have no doubt that they will continue to speak up for a free and independent Cuba."

Nor, Kennedy said, will the U.S. accept Castro's attempts to blame the United States for the hatred his one-time supporters have for his repression. His audience, the annual meeting of the newspaper society, was the same forum before which Castro insisted two years ago: "We are not Communists."

ANSWERS SOVIET

In a reference to Premier Khrushchev, the president said that should the time ever come when the United States must protect itself against outside Communist penetration of the western hemisphere, "we do not intend to be lectured on intervention" by those whose character was stamped for all time on the bloody streets of Budapest.

Cuba is not an island unto itself and "our concern is not ended by mere expressions of non-intervention and regret."

This, he said, is not the first time.

Heavy Losses On Both Sides

MIAMI (AP) — Prime Minister Castro said today he has wiped out rebel invaders on Cuba's southern beaches and captured large stores of U.S. arms, including Sherman tanks.

But he conceded his forces have suffered heavy losses.

The rebel leaders insisted the main invading force has fought through to guerrillas waiting in the Escambray Mountains of central Cuba to carry on the civil war.

Echoing Castro's claims, Moscow radio charged U.S. marines are poised to strike and repeated Soviet government warnings that the use of American forces would have dire consequences.

Moscow said Castro had "dealt a colossal blow to the forces of aggression" but "this does not mean that the threat of the independence of Cuba has been removed and that the interventionists have relinquished their criminal schemes."

Rebels Had Mere 600 'Fighters'

By MAX FREEDMAN
Special to the Times

WASHINGTON — The mystery of the invading force can now be explained. The total anti-Castro forces landed in Cuba amounted to nearly 5,000 men but the bulk of them were not troops intended for immediate combat.

This figure includes field hospital attendants and other support units. In other words, there were about 500 to 600 combat troops.

The main body of anti-Castro forces—about 4,000 men—were put ashore with enough supplies and communications equipment to establish a stronghold of opposition in the Escambray mountains in south central Cuba.

This is the intended core of the democratic revolutionary front which aims at gathering enough supplies in the island to topple the Castro regime.

But that now seems a long-term prospect. Castro has been strengthened by recent events, not weakened by them, unless all the military reports from Cuba are unreliable.

'Vendetta' Not Answer

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan, pledging Britain's co-operation in trade with South Africa after it leaves the Commonwealth May 31, said today a vendetta would do nothing to change apartheid.

Macmillan said he believed it is "the hope of every one of us" that in time a South Africa which has dropped its apartheid policy will rejoin the Commonwealth.

The prime minister told 4,000 Conservative women at a meeting here "we would certainly not help the situation if we pursued a vendetta against them and indulged in trade boycotts and similar demonstrations."

"On the contrary, we hope to continue as far as is practicable co-operation in trade and other matters."

Korea Air Alert

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — A South Korean air force Sabrejet crashed 100 miles south of Seoul today after being chased by three Communist MIGs. The incident touched off a nationwide air alert.

SOUTHEAST ASIA ALERT MAY BE CALLED SOON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration was reported today to call for a military alert by the Southeast Asia Alliance if Russia continues to delay a cease-fire in Laos.

An administration official said that the next few days would be critical.

BRITAIN OPTIMISTIC

Laos Peace Seems Near

LONDON (Reuters) — A foreign office spokesman said today agreement seemed very near between Britain and Russia on the question of a cease-fire and the holding of an international conference on Laos.

"Agreement now seems very near," the spokesman told a press conference, but he declined to elaborate on the brief statement.

Britain called on Russia Wednesday to join in an appeal today to the right wing and leftist forces in Laos to end their fighting.

Diplomatic sources said one more meeting between the British ambassador in Moscow Sir Frank Roberts, and Soviet government officials might be enough to bring about full agreement and a joint appeal for a cease-fire might come sometime later today.

Roberts presented the cease-fire proposal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow Wednesday.

The proposal was the latest of a series of diplomatic exchanges on Laos between the two nations in their capacity as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home said the proposal presented Wednesday called for a 14-nation conference on Laos to start May 5, after the cease-fire had been verified by the Indian-Canadian-Polish truce commission on Laos.

SOVIET RAPPED

U.S. Backed By Britain On Cuba

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Britain Wednesday denounced as extreme and without foundation the Soviet and Cuban charges that the United States is masterminding an invasion aimed at overthrowing Cuban Premier Castro.

Sir Patrick Dean, the British delegate, delivered a strong defence of the U.S. in the United Nations political committee.

The Soviet bloc was meeting with no support in the committee for its demand that the UN condemn the U.S. as an aggressor in Cuba.

Both Britain and Canada endorsed a proposal by Latin American nations to let them take the leading role in negotiating a peaceful settlement of the Cuban situation.

The 99-nation committee scheduled morning, afternoon and night meetings and was expected to vote on the Cuban situation before the day is out. Its decision then must go for final approval to the General Assembly.

At this morning's session Saudi Arabia accused the U.S. of inciting revolt against Castro's government. It said Cuba does not have to account to anybody for the alleged betrayal of its revolutionary principles.

Saudi Arabian minister of state Ahmad Shukairy denounced the Monroe Doctrine, telling the General Assembly's main political committee:

"If you accept the hemispheric idea, then Europe would be under the Soviet Union and Asia under China."

Republicans Rap JFK Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress today to curb "expense account living," raise taxes on dividends and give business a chance to qualify for $1.7 billion in tax cuts designed to spur economic growth.

These and other proposals for sweeping tax reform next year were contained in a special message.

The president's seven-point program would not affect taxes paid by taxpayers with income only from wages or a salary.

Congressional tax writers promptly agreed that the president's tax program was so controversial there was no chance it would win approval in its present form.

UNDER FIRE

The program came under immediate fire from Republicans on the house ways and means committee which was expected to begin public hearings within two weeks.

Rep. Bruce Alger (R-Tex.) termed it "a declaration of war on American free enterprise." Rep. Steven B. Derouin (R-N.Y.) called the president's message "a curious concoction of hokum and hyperbole."

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) said he would schedule hearings on the president's proposals.

The tax cuts proposed for businesses would be restricted to those which make new investments in plant and equipment and would be geared to the magnitude of the investments.

The president estimated this investment incentive would cost the treasury $1.7 billion a year, but create 500,000 jobs. He said the revenue would be recovered through his other proposals, so that the federal budget would not be affected. Kennedy's program would not increase taxes paid by taxpayers with income only from wages or a salary.

WIRE BRIEFS

Support Prices Stay Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — Dairy support prices including butter will remain unchanged for another year from May 1. Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton told the Commons today.

He thus indicated that study of ways to lower butter prices without unduly reducing returns to the farmers—in an effort to stimulate butter consumption—has not been completed.

Wage Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today passed President Kennedy's $1.25 an hour minimum wage bill. Passage came on a roll call vote of 65 to 28.

30 Die In Angola

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — Portuguese police broke up a rebel "government" in Southern Angola in a series of clashes with natives in which 30 were killed and 33 arrested, it was announced today.

2nd Newsman Jailed

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — The Swiss foreign office today reported the arrest in Havana of a second United Press International correspondent, Martin Houseman. It said it had asked the Castro government for details. The arrest of UPI correspondent Henry Raymond was reported Wednesday.

40 WINKS

Caught napping Wednesday during 99-nation political committee meeting at United Nations in New York was Jaja Wachuku of Nigeria. Cuban invasion was main topic of discussion. (AP Wirephoto.)

PUPS IS PUPS — EVEN AT $2,000 THE BASKETFULL

Don't try to count 'em, because you can't — but there are eight healthy, happy, squirming puppies in the basket, with a potential value of as much as $2,000. They are genuine Weimaraners, born five weeks ago to Ch. Barosa Von Har, a little sister to the Weimaraner owned by Gen. Eisenhower. Pups, five males and three females, are proud possession of Mrs. John Aitken, 4081 Cedar Hill, who is planning a unique career for "Princess" whom she is holding in photo. When Princess is three months old, she will be shipped to England, to start the first Weimaraner dynasty in the British Isles, where only 14 of the breed are now registered.

RECOGNIZE RED CHINA

Majority Agree With Archbishop

Men and women in many walks of life today supported the opinion of Archbishop Harold Sexton that Red China should be admitted to the United Nations without delay.

"We cannot safely ignore these teeming millions," the archbishop told the 59th session of the Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia.

Of 20 people contacted by The Times this morning, 12 agreed with the archbishop. Four disagreed with him. The other four declined to give an opinion.

"Of course he is right," said Mrs. Barbara Sulbury, 1504 Haultain. "It is only common sense. How can you have a United Nations organization if it does not represent all the nations?"

There are nearly 700,000,000 people in China and we may as well face up to it," commented P. E. Hughes, 721 Lansdowne. "China is a great power whether we like it or not."

Terence Jones, 20-year-old student of 1163 Colville Road, said the United Nations should give "earnest consideration" to admitting Red China.

Miss Erika Tosch, a Swiss student living at 2640 Cook Street, took the opposite view. "Communism is incompatible with the principle of the United Nations," she declared. "I do not think China should be admitted."

Major F. V. Longstaff, 50 King George Terrace, said he did not agree with Archbishop Sexton and did not think he should "meddle" in international affairs. "He should remember that China still holds many Christians prisoner, both Protestant and Catholic."

Mrs. Nan Greenwood, 2735 Scott Street, said: "I don't see how the United Nations can achieve its purpose without China. You cannot shut out a nation of that size."

"I am in full agreement with the archbishop," said Mrs. H. W. Maunsell, teacher of 1771 Newton. "The Communist government of China and should be represented at UN."

"There is no valid reason why China should be excluded," said Michael Sampson, 3155 Richmond. "You cannot ignore a nation of that size."

Rev. Alexander Calder of Oak Bay United Church said the Communist government should be recognized as the official government of the people.

"Chiang Kai-shek (head of the nationalist government recognized by the United States) is playing the same sort of role as Bonnie Prince Charlie in Scotland."

John Emerson, visiting here from Vancouver, said: "Communism is a fait accompli in China and we might as well get used to the idea. What is the use of pretending otherwise?"

"Red China should obviously be admitted," said Colin Cameron, former M.P. for Nanaimo. "I think the United States is reconsidering its attitude and will recognize the Communist government if it can do so without loss of face."

Mrs. E. Pieters, 1288 Holloway, did not agree with the archbishop. "I don't think we should admit Communists to the United Nations," she said.

Mrs. Mabel Watson, 1031 Pandora, said Red China should be admitted if the Communist government agreed to conform to the principles of the United Nations.

A. K. Hurst, 1450 Douglas, declared: "There is no hope for world peace if we do not admit China. The time for quibbling over China's politics has gone by."

Mrs. J. E. Forsyth, visiting here from her home in Toronto, said the United States should follow the example of Britain and adopt a "more reasonable attitude" to Red China.

John H. Emerson, 1110 Fort Street, said Red China should be admitted "at the earliest opportunity."

"There can be no proper negotiations for world peace while China is left out in the cold," he said.

Archbishop Sexton said many persons have supported his proposal, and he repeated it in a CBC telecast today.

Sad Weather To Continue Over Friday

Chilly, bleak, unsettled weather of the past two days will continue overnight and into Friday, weatherman William Mackie said today.

A weather system approaching from Alaska Panhandle will give showers tonight and Friday, and southeast winds of from 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Temperatures will range between a minimum of 40 degrees tonight and a maximum of 50 degrees Friday.

There is a chance, however, of improving weather behind the storm, Mr. Mackie said. It goes through Victoria on schedule Friday morning, then there will be sunshine Friday afternoon, he said, and the possibility of sunshine again Saturday.

The air will remain cool, and winds will be strong from the northwest.

Temperatures this week have been anything but spring-like.

Minimum Tuesday morning at Gonzales Observatory was 41 degrees, and at the Tillikum reporting station 34 degrees.

Minimums Wednesday morning were 36 and 35 degrees, respectively, while this morning they were a fairly mild 40 degrees at Gonzales, and a decidedly frigid 31 at Tillikum.

Census-Takers Going to School

Preparations Made For June Headcount

By FRANK RUTTER

A federal official will spend next week in Victoria teaching the art of census-taking to local commissioners who will participate in a Canada-wide "quiz" during the month of June.

Starting June 1 enumerators will fan out across the nation to ask questions about every person in Canada.

Everyone is required by law to answer each question. Penalty for refusing, under the Statistics Act, is $100 fine or three months jail per question.

The census, first since 1951, will cover three fields: population and housing, agriculture and merchandising.

Details on financial status, including all sources of income and allowances, will be taken at every fifth household. They are to be sealed by the person queried and will not be opened until delivered to Bureau of Statistics offices.

Census-takers are sworn to an oath of secrecy. Norman McLeod, of the Vancouver bureau office, will hold "classes" for a week here, starting Monday, for the six commissioners appointed for Victoria federal riding, five from Esquimalt-Saanich and one from the Cowichan area of the Nanaimo constituency.

Each area also will employ some 25 enumerators for the big quiz.

Names of the commissioners and enumerators have not been announced.

Main goal of the census is a head count, and the most likely effect of this will be adjustments in the distribution of seats in Canada's Parliament.

The estimated population at the end of 1960 was 18,040,000. Name, sex, age, religion, origin, educational standard will be asked of everyone.

People over 15 will be asked details about their jobs.

The housing questions include the type of dwelling, whether the owner has a car, TV or freezer, how much the house is worth and if there is a mortgage.

There are 186 questions on the census.

Answers given by the individual are absolutely confidential. They are not available to any other department or agency other than the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Names, it says, are only sought to ensure complete enumeration.

No Inquest Into Boy's Traffic Death

Inquest into the death Wednesday of seven-year-old traffic victim Mark Wakefield has been waived.

The Gordon Head boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wakefield, 1920 San Juan, died at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 3:20 p.m. of injuries received Saturday when his tricycle ran into a passing car opposite his home.

He was admitted in critical condition with head, chest and back injuries and broken arms. His condition this week was reported as unchanged and poor.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said he would conduct an informal inquiry on advice from the attorney-general's department.

"NO LIABILITY" He commented meanwhile the formal inquest was waived because there seems to be "no liability involved ... no apparent negligence."

Police said the child rode his tricycle down an inclined driveway and was in collision with the side of a car driven by Arthur Ernest Parsons, 1906 Grandview, who said his vision was obscured by roadside bushes.

Another resident said he shouted at the boy when he saw what was about to happen, but the youngster did not respond.

The death was the fourth due to a traffic accident in Greater Victoria this year.

One-Man Conciliation Boards Still Under Challenge by City

City finance committee today recommended that council carry its fight against one-man conciliation boards to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

Committee received and filed a reply from Labor Minister Leslie Peterson which shrugged off city protests against the one-man procedure by which City Hall staff hours were cut from 5 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. during the May 1 to Sept. 21 period.

"There nothing we can do about it this time but I feel very strongly that it is absolutely wrong to have one man decide important matters like the wages and hours for city employees," said Ald. M. H. Mooney.

Committee ordered drafting of a resolution for the UBCM convention which would require all conciliation decisions to be made by a regularly appointed three-man board.

Expenditure of about $1,200 to equip four fire trucks with automatic sirens was recommended to the budget committee.

Fire wardens chairman Ald. A. I. Curtis said the automatic sirens would go on as soon as the truck engines were started and would be more penetrating and consistently audible than manually-operated sirens.

A $4,500 capital grant spread over three years was recommended to budget committee for the St. John's Ambulance training building here. The sum would equal the city's normal share of the $10,000 request had it been approved by the intermunicipal committee instead of turned down.

But a Salvation Army request for $45,000 towards its Matson Sunset Lodge was tabled pending a report from the health and welfare committee.

Thunderbirds Drum Corps of 40 girls was given permission to practise one night weekly in the old Victoria West fire hall.

Taking part will be B.C., Alaska and Yukon officials.

Probable members of the B.C. team, besides the premier, are Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, and two or three departmental officials.

Major topic will be the international "Marine Highway" scheme planned to link Alaska with California, possibly with Vancouver Island as a stepping stone on the route.

FERRIES APPROVED Alaskans last Nov. 8, approved a $23,000,000 bond issue for construction of ferries to run from Haines, Alaska, to Prince Rupert.

Governor William Egan now is seeking negotiations on facilities at Prince Rupert for docking.

This will likely be a federal matter, and Ottawa is expected to send an observer to the Juneau conference.

Roads and railways from the U.S. border to Alaska also will be big issues on the conference agenda.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Behind the high altar of Christ Church Cathedral you are reminded that the theatre had its origins in the church. It was the old Biblical pageants that launched dramatic art as we know it — and in the vestry of the cathedral you find bishops and clergy robing as if for a stage classic, and chatting lightheartedly about it.

"Is my cassock on right, old man?" one will say to another. And even Archbishop Harold Sexton has been heard to inquire: "Am I straight at the back?"

On entering the cathedral, of course, bishops and clergy shed all informality and take on a mood of deep devotion. But they let their hair down a little when entertained by Archbishop Sexton in the Union Club.

"There is less regard for high office in B.C. than other parts of Canada," said Right Rev. W. R. Coleman, Bishop of Kootenay, who was formerly principal of Huron College, Ontario.

"Most people in this province regard you first and foremost as a person, regardless of your office."

Yet he was greeted in a small interior parish with the expression: "Welcome, my Lord!"

Archbishop Sexton capped this by saying that he was once received with the salutation: "My God, how are you?"

Bishop Coleman says British Columbians are more conscious of speed limits than Canadians in other provinces. "I have seen far less driving above the speed limits in B.C. than in Ontario," said the slim, ascetic-looking prelate. "This may indicate a greater respect for law and order."

You would hardly expect an 11-year-old boy to tackle such a subject as the life cycle of a salmon.

Freeman King, president of Victoria Natural History Society, tells me this is one of the best efforts he has received so far in the society's junior essay contest.

Cons. Edward James said he saw Olson's car weaving on Pandora, followed its erratic course onto Government and spoke to Olson when the car made a wrong turn at Fountain Circle and stopped short of running into a concrete island.

FINAL BULLETINS

Bombings Incapacitate Castro?

MIAMI (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has been incapacitated either physically or mentally, probably the latter—by rebel plane bombings on Monday, it was reported today by two organizations concerned with Cuban affairs.

Kennedy Met Cuban Rebel Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy had a secret conference Wednesday with the chairman and five members of the anti-Castro Cuban Revolutionary Council, it was disclosed today.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters Kennedy's strongly worded speech on the Cuban situation to the American Society of Newspaper Editors today was based in part on information obtained from Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, the chairman, and other council members.

Victoria Girl Wins Fellowship

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Federation of University Women announced today fellowships totalling $7,000 have been awarded to four Canadian women. At the same time, the federation announced an American Association of University Women international fellowship of $2,500 was won by another Canadian, Dorothea Ross of Victoria.

Listen Against Ingo In Montreal?

MONTREAL (UPI) — Promoter Eddie Quinn today made a pitch for an international boxing match between challengers Sonny Liston and Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in Montreal this summer. The wrestling-boxing promoter sent out a feeler for the bout today, wiring Johansson's adviser, Edwin Ahlqvist in Goteborg, Sweden.

Republicans Rap JFK Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress today to curb "expense account living," raise taxes on dividends and give business a chance to qualify for $1.7 billion in tax cuts designed to spur economic growth.

U.S. Backed By Britain On Cuba

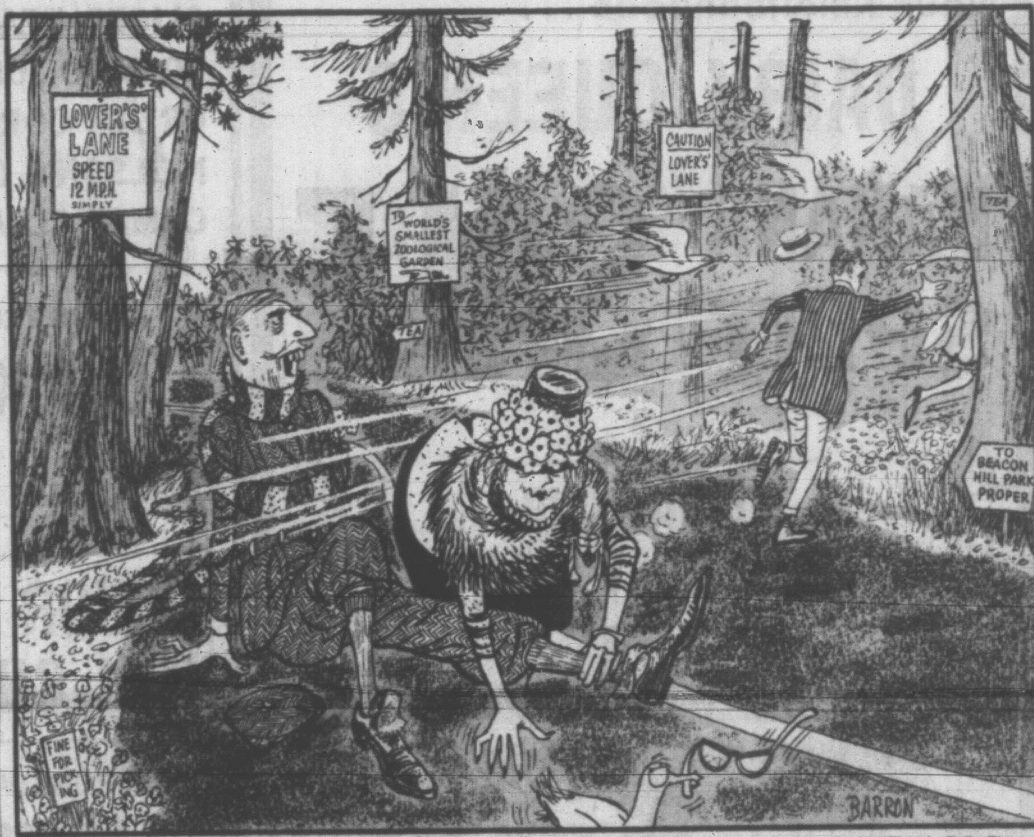

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Britain Wednesday denounced as extreme and without foundation the Soviet and Cuban charges that the United States is masterminding an invasion aimed at overthrowing Cuban Premier Castro.

Sir Patrick Dean, the British delegate, delivered a strong defence of the U.S. in the United Nations political committee. The Soviet bloc was meeting with no support in the committee for its demand that the UN condemn the U.S. as an aggressor in Cuba.

Both Britain and Canada endorsed a proposal by Latin American nations to let them take the leading role in negotiating a peaceful settlement of the Cuban situation.

The 99-nation committee scheduled morning, afternoon and night meetings and was expected to vote on the Cuban situation before the day is out. Its decision then must go for final approval to the General Assembly.

At this morning's session Saudi Arabia accused the U.S. of inciting revolt against Castro's government. Saudi Arabian minister of state Ahmad Shukairy denounced the Monroe Doctrine, telling the General Assembly's main political committee: does not have to account to anybody for the alleged betrayal of its revolutionary principles.

SOUTHEAST ASIA ALERT MAY BE CALLED SOON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration was reported ready today to call for a military alert by the Southeast Asia Alliance if Russia continues to delay a cease-fire in Laos. An administration official said that the next few days would be critical.

'Staged Attacks' Protested by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department said today the United States has strongly protested to Russia, Bulgaria and Romania what it described as "staged mob attacks" against the U.S. legations in those countries Tuesday.

The department said these "mob actions" represent "an undesirable development in the maintenance of relations between governments" and "a deterioration in the standards of international practice."

Department press officer Lincoln White said the mob actions were "just what you would expect" in eastern Europe by pro-Castro mobs. The demonstrations were in connection with the rebel anti-Castro invasion of Cuba.

White was asked to explain whether the U.S. charge that the demonstrations were "staged" meant they were directed by the governments of the Communist countries. He replied that he could not say that "specifically," but that it was a fact they damaged relations because the Communist countries concerned "have the police to prevent the type of damage done."

"On the contrary, we hope to continue as far as is practicable co-operation in trade and other matters."

BRITAIN OPTIMISTIC

Laos Peace Seems Near

LONDON (Reuters) — A foreign office spokesman said today agreement seemed very near between Britain and Russia on the question of a cease-fire and the holding of an international conference on Laos.

"Agreement now seems very near," the spokesman told a press conference, but he declined to elaborate on the brief statement.

Britain called on Russia Wednesday to join in an appeal today to the right wing and leftist forces in Laos to end their fighting.

Diplomatic sources said one more meeting between the British ambassador in Moscow Sir Frank Roberts, and Soviet government officials might be enough to bring about full agreement and a joint appeal for a cease-fire might come sometime later today.

Roberts presented the cease-fire proposal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow Wednesday.

The proposal was the latest of a series of diplomatic exchanges on Laos between the two nations in their capacity as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home said the proposal presented Wednesday called for a 14-nation conference on Laos to start May 5, after the cease-fire had been verified by the Indian-Canadian-Polish truce commission on Laos.

'Will Meet Obligations'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy declared today the United States will not hesitate in meeting its obligations to its own security in the Cuban situation—should that become necessary.

In an address prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Kennedy again said that unilateral American intervention in Cuba would have been contrary to traditions and international obligations, "but let the record show that our restraint is not inexhaustible."

"Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action—if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration—then I want it clearly understood that this government will not hesitate in meeting its primary obligations which are to the security of our own nation."

LAOS GUERRILLAS

Kennedy said the Cuban guerrilla fighters aligned against the government of Fidel Castro are determined that Cuba must not be abandoned to the Communists. "And we do not intend to abandon it either," the president said. "The Cuban people have not yet spoken their final piece—and I have no doubt that they will continue to speak up for a free and independent Cuba."

Nor, Kennedy said, will the U.S. accept Castro's attempts to blame the United States for the hatred his one-time supporters have for his repression. His audience, the annual meeting of the newspaper society, was the same forum before which Castro insisted two years ago: "We are not Communists."

In a reference to Premier Khrushchev, the president said that should the time ever come when the United States must protect itself against outside

Rebels Had Mere 600 'Fighters'

By MAX FREEDMAN Special to the Times

WASHINGTON — The mystery of the invading force can now be explained. The total anti-Castro forces landed in Cuba amounted to nearly 5,000 men but the bulk of them were not troops intended for immediate combat.

This figure includes field hospital attendants and other support units. In other words, there were about 500 to 600 combat troops.

The main body of anti-Castro forces—about 4,000 men—were put ashore with enough supplies and communications equipment to establish a stronghold of opposition in the Escambray mountains in south central Cuba.

This is the intended core of the democratic revolutionary front which aims at gathering enough supplies in the island to topple the Castro regime.

But that now seems a long-term prospect. Castro has been strengthened by recent events, not weakened by them, unless all the military reports from Cuba are unreliable.

HEAVY LOSSES

Castro Crushes Rebel Invaders

MIAMI (AP) — Prime Minister Castro said today he has wiped out rebel invaders on Cuba's southern beaches and captured large stores of U.S. arms, including Sherman tanks.

But he conceded his forces have suffered heavy losses.

The rebel leaders insisted the main invading force has fought through to guerrillas waiting in the Escambray Mountains of central Cuba to carry on the civil war.

Echoing Castro's claims, Moscow radio charged U.S. marines are poised to strike and repeated Soviet government warnings that the use of American forces would have dire consequences.

Moscow said Castro had "dealt a colossal blow to the forces of aggression" but "this does not mean that the threat of the independence of Cuba has been removed and that the interventionists have relinquished their criminal schemes."

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the operation was not a major invasion but a type of resistance "likely to go on." He declared it was launched by "a group of courageous men who returned to Cuba determined to do what they could to assist the people in establishing freedom in that island."

Shortly after Rusk's statement, a new rebel radio station went on the air, reporting it was established on the Escambray Mountains and declaring the anti-Castro forces which landed Monday had carried out their mission.

There were rumors—entirely unconfirmed—that more landings were imminent. The Cuban government communique claiming total victory over the invasion force that hit the swampy beaches of Cochinos Bay Monday said "Giron Beach, which was the last stronghold of the mercenaries, fell at 5.30 p.m. Wednesday."

Signed by Castro as prime minister and commander-in-chief, the communique claimed the invaders "suffered heavy casualties, dispersing in a swamp area from which no escape is possible." But Castro conceded his forces "paid a high toll in courageous lives."

The prime minister said a "large quantity of arms of American manufacture were captured, including various Sherman heavy tanks."

The Cuban revolutionary council in New York, which organized the striking force of Cuban exiles, had said earlier that the "landings" were only a phase of its campaign to overthrow Castro. It disclaimed them as "an invasion."

"Regrettably, we admit tragic losses in today's (Wednesday) action among a small holding force," the council said.

The force, a communique issued in New York by the council said, "courageously fought Soviet tanks and artillery while being attacked by Russian MIG aircraft—a gallantry which allowed the major portion of our landing party to reach the Escambray Mountains."

The communique—issued prior to the Cuban government's claim of victory—continued in part:

"We did not expect to topple Castro immediately or without setbacks. And it is certainly true that we did not expect to face, unscathed, Soviet armaments directed by Communist advisers. We did and survived."

"The struggle for freedom of 6,000,000 Cubans continues." Widespread arrests throughout Cuba were confirmed today by the Havana correspondent of the Communist Yugoslav newspaper Politika. He claimed Castro's security police smashed all attempts by Cubans inside the island to aid the invaders with a network of informers and "committees of alertness."

The committees of alertness formed in houses and blocks have the duty to report everything and every suspicious man to the security police," the Politika correspondent reported.

"Based on their denunciations not only innumerable arrest took place, but they made it possible for the security service to prevent co-operation between interior counter-revolutionaries with those who disembarked."

The foreign office announced in London that three Britons—one an information officer in the British embassy—were in jail.

Yanks Seize Cuban Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—U.S. Air Force authorities today seized a Cuban airliner when it made an "unauthorized" landing at the U.S. Kindley Air Force base on a flight from Prague, Czechoslovakia to Havana.

The seizure of the Bristol Britannia airliner with 25 persons aboard, 11 of them passengers, was based on the technical point the plane did not have proper insurance and had been advised in flight not to land at the American base.

The Cubana Airlines is owned by the government of Premier Fidel Castro which established regular Prague-Havana flight service last December.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate today passed President Kennedy's $1.25 an hour minimum wage bill. Passage came on a roll call vote of 65 to 28.
